Second Revolution Afrikanerdom And The Crisis Of Identity:

The Second Revolution Willem Abraham De Klerk, 1984

State Security in South Africa James Michael Roherty, 1992

This work is a study of civil military relations in the Republic of South Africa while Pieter Willem Botha was prime minister 1978-89. The author's controversial thesis is that Prime Minister Botha, recognizing that his country had reached the historical juncture when it needed to establish a new political order encompassing all of its diverse peoples, moved effectively to prepare the ground for fundamental constitutional change. What was needed above all were stabilization measures to assure the support of the white population for reform. Botha used the South African defence force as his primary instrument. By 1989, Professor Roherty maintains, a striking degree of stabilization had been achieved within the country and throughout South Africa and the groundwork for epochal change had been prepared. The author makes use of exclusive interviews with South Africans from the political, military, intelligence, corporate and academic worlds. State, Resistance and Change in South Africa Philip Frankel, Noam Pines, Mark Swilling, 2022-10-05. Originally published in 1988, this book describes and analyses the factors that were operative in South Africa during the 1980s at a time when Apartheid was under intense pressure. It focuses not only on the central arenas of political action but also on the non-institutional arenas which were increasingly the central forums of political action. Organised around the three linked themes of state action, popular opposition and possible alternatives, the work examines the manner in which such key institutions such as government, business and the military responded to Apartheid in its crisis, as well as the role of the ANC, the black trade unions, Inkatha and community movements in the townships. The final section deals with the South African left and the Freedom Charter.

Las iglesias cristianas ante el apartheid en sudafrica Márquez Beunza, Carmen, 2014-12-30. Esta obra se centra en el análisis del documento Kair, un texto de carácter ecuménico y contextual elaborado en 1985 cuando Sudáfrica vive uno de los momentos más trágicos de su historia reciente bajo el régimen del apartheid. La confrontación de la Iglesia con una situación de nacionalismo político no es algo nuevo en la vida de la Iglesia. Pero en pocos lugares la religión ha jugado un papel tan determinante en el último siglo como lo ha hecho en Sudáfrica, donde se entrelazan de forma muy característica el nacionalismo blanco con la religión, llegando a hablar de la matriz religiosa y cristiana del apartheid. En ese sentido, Sudáfrica se convierte en ejemplo paradigmático de las relaciones entre teología e ideología y política. El documento Kair reacciona fuertemente ante el peligro de una teología convertida en ideología y advierte de los riesgos de toda nacionalización de la religión. Definir el papel y el lugar del evangelio en esa crisis, discernir en definitiva la voluntad de Dios en ese preciso momento y lugar es la difícil tarea a la que se enfrentan los redactores del documento y en último término los cristianos de Sudáfrica. En ella afloran cuestiones de gran calado: la reconciliación, la justicia y el problema del recurso a la violencia, la tiranía y el problema de la desobediencia civil o la discutida implantación sudafricana del calvinismo y su posibilidad de redención. Pese a tratarse de un documento de carácter coyuntural, el texto nos sitúa ante cuestiones nucleares y permanentes de la teología.

 examines the role that images embedded in the language and discourses of colonialism and apartheid have played in shaping diverse and conflicting identities in South Africa It explores images and modes of discursive representation in South African education and the associated struggles for constitution and hegemony of group identities over years Images should be understood in the context of the struggle in words and by words in the sense that images and representations of group identities are not neutral intellectual activity They are action and practice with profound implications for the affirmation of South Africa Sean Jacobs turns to media politics and the consumption of media as a way to understand recent political developments in South Africa and their relations with the African continent and the world Jacobs looks at how mass media define the physical and human geography of the society and what it means for comprehending changing notions of citizenship in postapartheid South Africa Jacobs claims that the media have unprecedented control over the distribution of public goods rights claims and South Africa's integration into the global political economy in ways that were impossible under the state controlled media that dominated the apartheid years Jacobs takes a probing look at television commercials and the representation of South Africans reality television shows and South African continental expansion soap operas and postapartheid identity politics and the internet as a space for reassertions and reconfigurations of identity As South Africa becomes more integrated into the global economy Jacobs argues that local media have more weight in shaping how consumers view these products in unexpected and consequential ways
