Thunderer William Mowll, 2010-04-06 HMS Thunderer was the third Orion class battleship one of the Super Dreadnoughts built to counter German naval expansion and was laid down one hundred years ago in April 1910 At 22 200 tons she was the largest ship ever built on the Thames but she was to be responsible for the bankruptcy of her builders the Thames Iron Works The author's 1/96 scale museum quality model of this ship reflects the massive engineering of the prototype and brings to life the power and potency of the Super Dreadnoughts Every aspect of the building is covered from the hull to wireless equipment and all the different techniques required to bring a complex model battleship to completion are clearly explained including casting in metal and GRP silver brazing soft soldering metal fabrication in steel brass copper aluminium and pewter and lathe turning and milling operations for the production of guns and propellers The author also covers the contemporary American battleship USS Texas the only remaining ship of that type and era and an inspiration for any modeller setting out to tackle this subject Not just a superb how to manual the book is also an eloquent testimony to the skills of the designers and the original builders as well as a wonderful evocation of the great ships that fought at the battle of Jutland WILLIAM MOWLL has been building large scale ship models for more than twenty five years His interest is focussed on the iron ships of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries and he has completed superb models of SS Great Britain and HMS Warrior both on display at the sites where the prototypes were built Industrial Gazette New South Wales. Department of Labour and Industry, 1918 Archaeologia Aeliana, Or, Miscellaneous Tracts Relating to Antiquity

,1898 A classified catalogue of papers from Archaeologia aeliana 1813 1913 is included in the Centenary volume ser 3 v 10 p 334 376

Before the Ironclad David K. Brown, 2015-09-09 In the massive revolution that affected warship design between Waterloo and the Warrior the Royal Navy was traditionally depicted as fiercely resisting every change until it was almost too late but these old assumptions were first challenged in this authoritative history of the transition from sail to steam Originally published in 1990 it began a process of revaluation which has produced a more positive assessment of the British contribution to the naval developments of the period This classic work is here reprinted in an entirely new edition with more extensive illustration Beginning with the structural innovations of Robert Seppings the book traces the gradual introduction of more scientific methods and the advent of steam and the paddle fighting ship iron hulls and screw propulsion It analyses the performance of the fleet in the war with Russia 1853 1856 and concludes with the design of the Warrior the first iron hulled seagoing capital ship in the world The author presents a picture of an organisation that was well aware of new technology carefully evaluating its practical advantage and occasionally as with its enthusiastic espousal of iron hulls moving too quickly for the good of the service Written by an eminent naval architect Before the Ironclad is both a balanced account of general developments and an in depth study of the ships themselves
