The diagram illustrates a cycle of disease transmission. It features three stylized human figures: one on the left, one at the bottom, and one on the right. A curved arrow points from the left figure to the right figure. Another curved arrow points from the right figure to the bottom figure. A third curved arrow points from the bottom figure back to the left figure, completing the cycle. In the upper right quadrant, there is an illustration of a cow and two chickens. The title text is centered within the cycle.
