Modern English Novel:

The Modern British Novel Malcolm Bradbury, 2001 Bradbury argues that almost a century since the emergence of Modernism it is now possible to see the entire period in perspective It is clear that the first 50 years from Henry James Wilde and Stevenson through James Joyce Lawrence Forster to Huxley Isherwood and Orwell have been extensively discussed in print The years since World War II though have not been examined in depth yet have produced talents such as Graham Greene Angus Wilson Beckett Doris Lessing Margaret Drabble Angela Carter Ian McEwan Kingsley and Martin Amis Julian Barnes Fay Weldon Salman Rushdie and Timothy Mo

Modern Novels Alex Martin, Robert Hill, 1996 An introductory chapter on the anatomy of a novel deals with construction characters plots and convention and is followed by seven main extracts from novels which include Conrad's Heart of Darkness Lawrence's Women in Love Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby and Walker's The Colour Purple

The Cambridge Introduction to Modern British Fiction, 1950-2000 Dominic Head, 2002-03-07 In this introduction to post war fiction in Britain Dominic Head shows how the novel yields a special insight into the important areas of social and cultural history in the second half of the twentieth century Head's study is the most exhaustive survey of post war British fiction available It includes chapters on the state and the novel class and social change gender and sexual identity national identity and multiculturalism Throughout Head places novels in their social and historical context He highlights the emergence and prominence of particular genres and links these developments to the wider cultural context He also provides provocative readings of important individual novelists particularly those who remain staple reference points in the study of the subject Accessible wide ranging and designed specifically for use on courses this is the most current introduction to the subject available An invaluable resource for students and teachers alike

Reading the Modern British and Irish Novel 1890 - 1930 Daniel R. Schwarz, 2008-04-15 Daniel R Schwarz has studied and taught the modern British novel for decades and now brings his impressive erudition and critical acuity to this insightful study of the major authors and novels of the first half of the twentieth century An insightful study of British fiction in the first half of the twentieth century Draws on the author's decades of experience researching and teaching the modern British novel Sets the modern British novel in its intellectual cultural and literary contexts Features close readings of Hardy's Jude the Obscure Conrad's Heart of Darkness and Lord Jim Lawrence's Sons and Lovers and The Rainbow Joyce's Dubliners and Ulysses Woolf's Mrs Dalloway and To the Lighthouse and Forster's A Passage to India Shows how these novels are essential components in a modernist cultural tradition which includes the visual arts Takes account of recent developments in theory and cultural studies Written in an engaging style avoiding jargon

Dark Humour and Social Satire in the Modern British Novel L. Colletta, 2003-09-30 Colletta uses psychoanalytic theories of joke work and gallows humour to argue that dark humour is an important defining characteristic of Modernism She brings together the usual suspects alongside more often overlooked writers from the period and asks probing questions about the relationship between a dark humour that revels in the non rational the unstable and the fragmented and resists easy definition and political usefulness and the historical and social circumstances of the period Colletta makes a compelling argument that probing deeply into the nature of humour or satire that define these social comedies brings to light a more complex and more accurate understanding of the social changes and historical circumstances that define the modern era

An Introduction to the English Novel Arnold Kettle, 2016-03-17 First published in 1953 this book forms the second part of Arnold Kettle's An Introduction to the English Novel In this second part Kettle builds a discussion of the modern English novel around the study of various books that have a more than casual significance in its development He begins with an analysis of James Hardy and Butler three late Victorian writers whose work points forward to the major preoccupations of twentieth century novelists In his discussion of a dozen or so of these points the author examines their progress in the long struggle of the novelist to see life steadily and whole and points out some of the problems and hazards that beset the writer still The selection both of novelists and their work is excellent it is both shrewd and witty The Times Literary Supplement Altogether this is a refreshing challenging and original work wholly adult in tone and never pedantic or dull The Guardian

Chance and the Modern British Novel Julia Jordan, 2010-06-03 Chance and its representation in literature has a long and problematic history It is a vital aspect of the way we experience the world and yet its function is frequently marginalised and downplayed Offering a new reading of the development of the novel during the mid twentieth century Jordan argues that this simple novelistic paradox became more pressing during a period in which chance became a cultural scientific and literary preoccupation through scientific developments such as quantum mechanics and the uncertainty principle the influence of existential philosophy the growth of gambling and the uncertainty provoked by the Second World War In tracing the novel's representation of chance during this crucial period we see both the development of the novel and draw wider conclusions about the relationship between narrative and the contingent the arbitrary and the uncertain While the novel had historically rejected marginalised or undermined chance during this period it becomes a creative and welcome co contributor to the novel's development as writers such as Samuel Beckett B S Johnson Henry Green and Iris Murdoch show

Contemporary British Novel Since 2000 James Acheson, 2017-01-17 Focuses on the novels published since 2000 by twenty major British novelists The Contemporary British Novel Since 2000 is divided into five parts with the first part examining the work of four particularly well known and highly regarded twenty first century writers Ian McEwan David Mitchell Hilary Mantel and Zadie Smith It is with reference to each of these novelists in turn that the terms realist apostmodernist ahistorical and apostcolonialist fiction are introduced while in the remaining four parts other novelists are discussed and the meaning of the terms amplified From the start it is emphasised that these terms and others often mean different things to different novelists and that the complexity of their novels often obliges us to discuss their work with reference to more than one of the terms Also discusses the works of Maggie O'Farrell Sarah Hall A L Kennedy Alan Warner Ali Smith Kazuo Ishiguro Kate Atkinson Salman Rushdie Adam Foulds Sarah Waters James Robertson Mohsin Hamid

Andrea Levy and Aminatta Forna Childhood in the Contemporary English Novel Sandra Dinter, 2019-10-10 Since the 1980s novels about childhood for adults have been a booming genre within the contemporary British literary market Childhood in the Contemporary English Novel offers the first comprehensive study of this literary trend Assembling analyses of key works by Ian McEwan Doris Lessing P D James Nick Hornby Sarah Moss and Stephen Kelman and situating them in their cultural and political contexts Sandra Dinter uncovers both the reasons for the current popularity of such fiction and the theoretical shift that distinguishes it from earlier literary epochs The book's central argument is that the contemporary English novel draws on the constructivist paradigm shift that revolutionised the academic study of childhood several decades ago Contemporary works of fiction Dinter argues depart from the notion of childhood as a naturally given phase of life and examine the agent's interests and conflicts involved in its cultural production Dinter also considers the limits of this new theoretical impetus observing that authors and scholars alike even when they claim to conceive of childhood as a construct do not always give up on the idea of its natural core Accordingly this book reconstructs how the English novel between the 1980s and the 2010s oscillates between an acknowledgment of constructivism and an endorsement of childhood as the last irrevocable quintessence of humanity In doing so it successfully extends the literary and cultural history of childhood to the immediate present The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re-shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and suspenseful novel that will keep you speculating until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
