Forest Development in Cold Climates John Alden, J. Louise Mastrantonio, Søren Ødum, 2013-06-29 As forests decline in temperate and tropical climates highly developed countries and those striving for greater economic and social benefits are beginning to utilize marginal forests of high latitude and mountainous regions for resources to satisfy human needs The benefits of marginal forests range from purely aesthetic to providing resources for producing many goods and services demanded by a growing world population Increased demands for forest resources and amenities and recent warming of high latitude climates have generated interest in reforestation and afforestation of marginal habitats in cold regions Afforestation of treeless landscapes improves the environment for human habitation and provides for land use and economic prosperity Trees are frequently planted in cold climates to rehabilitate denuded sites for the amenity of homes and villages and for wind shelter recreation agroforestry and industrial uses In addition forests in cold climates reduce the albedo of the earth's surface in winter and in summer they are small but significant long lived sinks for atmospheric carbon dioxide Finally growth and reproductive success of forests at their geographic limits are sensitive indices of climatic change As efforts to adapt forests to cold climates increase however new afforestation problems arise and old ones intensify Austral northern and altitudinal tree limits are determined by many different factors Current hypotheses for high latitude tree limits are based on low growing season temperatures that inhibit plant development and reproduction The Tourism Imaginary and Pilgrimages to the Edges of the World Nieves Herrero, Sharon R. Roseman, 2015-06-01 This book examines how the growth of tourism in locations that have historically been considered geographically remote plays a major role in the consolidation and transformation of often longstanding and powerful cultural imaginaries about the edges of the world The contributors examine the attraction of the sublime remoteness continental border points and the dangers of the sea in Finisterre or Fisterra in Galicia Spain Finist re in Brittany France Land s End Cornwall England Lough Derg Ireland Nordkapp or North Cape Norway Cape Spear Newfoundland Canada and Tierra del Fuego Argentina While those travelling to these locations can be seen to be conducting some form of religious or secular pilgrimage those who live in them have long contended with the implications of economic and political marginalization within global political economies Airborne Maritime Surveillance in the North Atlantic John O. Birkeland, 2025-07-17 This book offers a comprehensive examination of historical Norwegian and allied airborne maritime surveillance operations in the North Atlantic after World War II until the present Russia s resurgent naval and submarine activity in the High North needs to be closely observed Norway together with her closest allies have monitored such activity in the High North since the end of World War II One of the key instruments in that effort has been Maritime Patrol Aircraft MPA with their Anti Submarine Warfare ASW capabilities However after the Cold War in many nations an atrophy took place within the MPA communities of knowledge resources and experience with airborne ASW This occurred just as the concept of intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance ISR came to play an increasingly important role in modern warfare but without sufficient attention being paid to the specific challenges of maritime airborne surveillance and reconnaissance This book addresses that gap and examines the entwined evolution of airborne maritime surveillance by MPA and ASW in the High North both during and after the Cold War with the main focus being on Norway The discussion identifies the fundamental building blocks of these historical surveillance operations through a portrayal of the development of airborne surveillance and reconnaissance operations These building blocks are then applied to make recommendations for the future for maritime surveillance in the High North This book will be of much interest to students of naval history strategic studies intelligence studies Nordic studies and International Relations
