Realism and consensus in the English novel Elizabeth Deeds Ermarth, 1998 Annotation This acclaimed study explores how the common denominators of modernity neutral time and neutral space were constructed from the Renaissance to the late nineteenth century Central to this development was the normalizing of a certain grammar of perspective evident across a range of practices from art to politics from science to philosophy from mathematics to cartography In particular it deals with the construction of historical time in narrative from the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries with particular case studies of Defoe Richardson Austen Dickens George Eliot and Henry James Realism and Consensus in the English Novel Consensus in the English Novel Elizabeth Ermarth, 1983 Ethics and the English Novel from Austen to Forster Valerie

Wainwright, 2016-05-13 Complicating a pervasive view of the ethical thought of the Victorians and their close relations which emphasizes the domineering influence of a righteous and repressive morality Wainwright discerns a new orientation towards an expansive ethics of flourishing or living well in Austen Gaskell Dickens Eliot Hardy and Forster In a sequence of remarkable novels by these authors Wainwright traces an ethical perspective that privileges styles of life that are worthy and fulfilling admirable and rewarding Presenting new research into the ethical debates in which these authors participated this rigorous and energetic work reveals the ways in which ideas of major theorists such as Kant F H Bradley or John Stuart Mill as well as those of now little known writers such as the priest Edward Tagart the preacher William Maccall and philanthropist Helen Dendy Bosanquet were appropriated and reappraised Further Wainwright seeks also to place these novelists within the wider context of modernity and proposes that their responses can be linked to the on going and animated discussions that characterize modern moral philosophy The English Novel In History 1840-1895 Elizabeth Ermarth, 2006-09-07 The construction of history as a social common denominator is a powerful achievement of the nineteenth century novel a form dedicated to experimenting with democratic social practice as it conflicts with economic and feudal visions of social order Through revisionary readings of familiar nineteenth century texts The English Novel in History 1840 1895 takes a multidisciplinary approach to literary history It highlights how narrative shifts from one construction of time to another and reformulates fundamental ideas of identity nature and society Elizabeth Ermarth discusses the range of novels

Representing Realists in Victorian Literature and Criticism Daniel Brown,2016-12-15 This book is about the historical moment when writers and critics first used the term realism to describe representation in literature and painting While scholarship on realism tends to proceed from an assumption that the term has a long established meaning and history this book reveals that mid nineteenth century critics and writers first used the term reluctantly with much confusion over what it might actually mean It did not acquire the ready meaning we now take for granted until the end of the nineteenth century In fact its first definitions came primarily by way of example and analogy through descriptions of current practitioners or through fictionalized representations of artists By investigating original debates over the term realism this book shows how writers simultaneously engaged with broader concerns about the changing meanings of what was real and who had the authority to decide this A Companion to the English Novel Stephen Arata,Madigan Haley,J.
