The Absurd Hero in American Fiction David D. Galloway, 1981-06-01 When The Absurd Hero in American Fiction was first released in 1966 Granville Hicks praised it in a lead article for the Saturday Review as a sensitive and definitive study of a new trend in postwar American literature In the years that followed David Galloway's analysis of the writings of John Updike William Styron Saul Bellow and J D Salinger became a standard critical work an indispensable tool for readers concerned with contemporary American literature The New York Times described the book as a seminal study of the modern literary imagination David Galloway himself an established novelist later extensively revised The Absurd Hero to include authoritative discussions of more than a dozen novels which had appeared since the first revised edition was released in 1970 Among them are John Updike's Couples Rabbit Redux and The Coup William Styron's The Confessions of Nat Turner and Sophie's Choice and Saul Bellow's Mr Sammler's Planet and Humboldt's Gift Through detailed analyses of these works Galloway demonstrates the continuing relevance of his own provocative concept of the absurd hero and provides important insights into the literary achievements of four of America's most influential postwar novelists A History of American Literature Richard Gray, 2011-09-23 Updated throughout and with much new material A History of American Literature Second Edition is the most up to date and comprehensive survey available of the myriad forms of American Literature from pre Columbian times to the present The most comprehensive and up to date history of American literature available today Covers fiction poetry drama and non fiction as well as other forms of literature including folktale spirituals the detective story the thriller and science fiction Explores the plural character of American literature including the contributions made by African American Native American Hispanic and Asian American writers Considers how our understanding of American literature has changed over the past thirty years Situates American literature in the contexts of American history politics and society Offers an invaluable introduction to American literature for students at all levels academic and general readers systems of the United States at the time and that this explains in part the Jewish novel's sweeping success in the American literary system Fictional Space in the Modernist and Post-modernist American Novel Carl Darryl Malmgren, 1985

Fictional space is the imaginal expanse of field created by fictional discourse a space which through ultimately self-referential and self-validating necessarily exists in ascertainable relation to the real world outside the text After defining his theoretical framework the author applies it to American fiction of the twentieth century Encyclopedia of American

Praise for the print edition no other reference work on American fiction brings together such an array of authors and texts as this Black Professional Women in Recent American Fiction Carmen Rose Marshall, 2015-01-24 The last three decades of the 20th century have marked the triumph of many black professional women against great odds in the workplace Despite their success few novels celebrate their accomplishments Black middle class professional women want to see themselves realistically portrayed by protagonists who work to achieve significant productivity and visibility in their careers desire stability in their personal lives aspire to accrue wealth and live elegantly though not consumptively The author contends that most recent American realistic fiction fails to represent black professional women protagonists performing their work effectively in the workplace Identifying the extent to which contemporary novels satisfy the readerly desires of black middle class women readers this book investigates why the readership wants the texts as well as what they prefer in the books they buy It also examines the technical and cultural factors that contribute to the lack of books with self-empowered black professional female protagonists and considers The Salt Eaters by Toni Cade Bambara and Waiting to Exhale by Terry McMillan two novels that function as significant markers in the development of contemporary black women writers texts
