Six Women Who Shaped What Americans Eat Michelle Mart, 2025-07-15 Six Women Who Shaped What Americans Eat tells the story of how food choice in modern America has been influenced by culture, industrial abundance, and health narratives. Mart reflects on the careers of six women to illustrate the varied and overlapping influences on food choice. Each of these women had a substantial impact on American cuisine, attitudes toward food, and what people chose to eat. They highlighted the politics of food, the pleasure of food, the connection between food and health, and the environmental harm of poor food choices. Part one of the book discusses the bounties of the modern American food system and covers Hazel Stiebeling, Poppy Cannon, and Julia Child. Stiebeling was a chemist and government nutritionist beginning in the 1930s and shaped dietary guidelines and school lunches that affected generations of Americans. Cannon, a best-selling cookbook author and newspaper columnist, gained fame in the 1950s by preaching the wonders of processed food. Child, another cookbook author and television personality starting in the 1960s, celebrated French cuisine and made it accessible to American cooks and palates. Part two examines the hidden costs of abundance and covers Frances Moore Lapp, Marion Nestle, and Alice Waters. Lapp was an author and activist concerned with the environmental impact of food in the late 20th century and who is credited with bringing vegetarianism into the mainstream. Nestle was an academic nutritionist, government consultant, and author who decried the undue influence of food corporations. Waters, a celebrity chef, restaurateur, and food activist, became a symbol of alternative food movements in the 21st century.

Whether he is in search of a foolproof formula for sourdough bread made from wild yeast, of course, or the most sublime French fries, the secret cooking them in horse fat, or the perfect piecrust, Fannie Farmer that is Marion Cunningham comes to the rescue; he will go to any length to find the answer. At the drop of an apron, he hops a plane to Japan to taste Wagyu, the hand-massaged beef, or to Palermo to scale Mount Etna to uncover the origins of ice cream. The love of choucroute takes him to Alsace, the scent of truffles to the Piedmont, the sizzle of ribs on the grill to Memphis to judge a barbecue contest, and both the unassuming and the haute cuisines of Paris demand his frequent assessment. Inevitably, these pleasurable pursuits take their toll. So we endure with him a week at a fat farm and commiserate over low-fat products and dreary diet cookbooks to bring down the scales. But salvation is at hand when the French Paradox

how can they eat so richly and live so long is unearthed and a miraculous new fat substitute Olestra is unveiled allowing a plump gourmand to have his fill of fat without getting fatter Here is the man who ate everything and lived to tell about it And we his readers are hereby invited to the feast in this delightful book
