Religious Experience Justification And History:

Religious Experience, Justification, and History Matthew C. Bagger, 1999-11-13 Many philosophers of religion have sought to defend the rationality of religious belief by shifting the burden of proof onto the critic of religious belief Some have appealed to extraordinary religious experience in making their case Religious Experience Justification and History restores neglected explanatory and historical considerations to the debate Through a study of William James it contests the accounts of religious experience offered in recent works Through reflection on the history of philosophy it also unravels the philosophical use of the term justification Matthew Bagger argues that the commitment to supernatural explanations implicit in the religious experiences employed to justify religious belief contradicts the modern ideal of human flourishing For contrast and to demonstrate the indispensability of history he includes a study of Teresa of Avila's mystical theology The controversial supernatural explanations implicit in extraordinary religious experience places the burden of proof on the believer Patterns in Comparative Religion Mircea Eliade, 2022-11-21 In this era of increased knowledge, the essence of religious phenomena eludes the psychologists, sociologists, linguists and other specialists because they do not study it as religious. According to Mircea Eliade, they miss the one irreducible element in religious phenomena: the element of the sacred. Eliade abundantly demonstrates universal religious experience and shows how humanity's effort to live within a sacred sphere has manifested itself in myriad cultures from ancient to modern times. How certain beliefs, rituals, symbols and myths have, with interesting variations, persisted.

Encountering Transcendence Lieven Boeve, Hans Geybels, Stijn Van den Bossche, 2005 This volume consists of several contributions to a refined understanding of religious experience in view of contemporary theological epistemology. Diverse sample studies taken from the extensive field of religion theology and religious studies reveal that religious experience is today clearly a pivotal issue. More specifically, this is made evident in modern theological hermeneutics and in the anti-modern and/or post-modern reactions thereto: the theology of world religions and inter-religious dialogue, the contemporary resurgence of religiosity in Western society and culture, and the so-called turn to religion in contemporary continental philosophy. It would appear from such studies that the category of religious experience is frequently called upon to clarify or explain the phenomenon of religion and religiosity on the one hand, and to support and legitimise religious positions or the critique thereof on the other. Because of the loss of plausibility of tradition-bound religiosity and of foundational so-called onto-theological schemes, religious experience has come to constitute for many the last or latest point of departure and anchor for religion and religious thinking. This is certainly the case with respect to tendencies within contemporary Christian traditions and theological reflection. In a multitude of ways and from a variety of different perspectives, religious experience and experience of transcendence or of the divine have gained a prominent place in philosophical and fundamental theological conceptual schemes. In reaction to this, other authors have denied the very primacy given to religious experience in reflecting upon faith, pointing to the constitutive role of tradition and narrative without which there is no religious experience. From all this follows that the category of religious experience is in great need of reconceptualisation, not least from a theological point of view. On the one hand, religious experience is all too easily called upon to legitimise religious claims, often against tradition; and on the other hand, the category has become misleading in so far as it is tainted by the modern scientific understanding of experience, in reaction to which tradition is then easily invoked to protect the core of religion. Both young scholars at the preceding junior conference and senior scholars during the conference's paper sessions presented from diverse perspectives new ways to conceive of religious experience in view of today's challenges of secularisation, religious plurality, the aestheticisation of religion, etc. The selected contributions have been arranged in four thematically oriented parts: Approaching Religious Experience in a Postmodern Age; Modern re-Thinking of Religious Experience; Liberating Religious Experience; and Challenges for Spirituality.
