The Reluctant Angel, by Sarah Franklin (pbk). Sarah Franklin, 1984 The Reluctant Angel Stuart W. G.

Tait, 2016-09-01 Elizabeth does not know who she is The world she once knew has come to an end The Rapture has been and gone Elizabeth has no time to search for answers as she's thrown into the fight of her life The fight to save humanity And even the fight to save every soul in existence As Elizabeth discovers how real heaven and hell really are she also has to ask herself why she's been given the guise of an angel The Reluctant Angel Adam Leonard, Dottie Torres, 2008-05

Tennyson's Rapture Cornelia D. J. Pearsall, 2008-01-29 In the wake of the death of his friend Arthur Henry Hallam the subject of In Memoriam Alfred Tennyson wrote a range of intricately connected poems many of which feature pivotal scenes of rapture or being carried away This book explores Tennyson's representation of rapture as a radical mechanism of transformation theological social political or personal and as a figure for critical processes in his own poetics The poet's fascination with transformation is figured formally in the genre he is credited with inventing the dramatic monologue Tennyson's Rapture investigates the poet's previously unrecognized intimacy with the theological movements in early Victorian Britain that are the acknowledged roots of contemporary Pentecostalism with its belief in the oncoming Rapture and its formative relation to his poetic innovation Tennyson's work recurs persistently as well to classical instances of rapture of mortals being borne away by immortals Pearsall develops original readings of Tennyson's major classical poems through concentrated attention to his profound intellectual investments in advances in philological scholarship and archeological exploration including pressing Victorian debates over whether Homer's raptured Troy was a verifiable site or the province of the poet's imagination Tennyson's attraction to processes of personal and social change is bound to his significant but generally overlooked Whig ideological commitments which are illuminated by Hallam's political and philosophical writings and a half century of interaction with William Gladstone Pearsall shows the comprehensive engagement of seemingly apolitical monologues with the rise of democracy over the course of Tennyson's long career Offering a new approach to reading all Victorian dramatic monologues this book argues against a critical tradition that sees speakers as unintentionally self-revealing and ignorant of the implications of their speech Tennyson's Rapture probes the complex aims of these discursive performances and shows how the ambitions of speakers for vital transformations in themselves and their circumstances are not only articulated in but attained through the medium of their monologues

This book comprises a selection of interdisciplinary essays in American literature and culture written by Clive Bush over some forty years. They fall into four sections: Classic American Literature, Literary and Cultural Modernism, Literature and Politics, and American Cultural Studies. The topics range from literature to architecture, from the history of linguistics to analyses of the commodity culture, from poetry to film. The essays themselves extend from American linguistics to Beat literature. There is however an identifiable series of common themes and perspectives throughout. The first is the question of the relation of discourse itself to the practices of power, personal, social and political. The second is the attention paid to the particular and general historical context in which both texts and quasi-texts are situated. The third is that a European perspective, making use of comparative texts, has been used throughout. The author demonstrates a commitment both to close reading and to the value judgement in the reading of texts. The Seraph Contingency Jennifer Fales, 2012-11-27. What do a five year old and a ferryman have in common? What does a goddess have to do with a golf course? What's with all the artifacts in Hell? Observations, Volume One M E Service, 2020. The human experience is a journey through time, space, and moments meant to expand our collective consciousness. These moments come and go in an instant. What did we feel, see, and learn from these moments? This book is a collection of one man's moments: Moments filled with love and pain, self-loathing and self-awareness. Moments of frustration and anger, of pure joy and self-acceptance. A journey to self-discovery that all can relate to. These poetic moments are meant to engage, enrage, start a dialogue, page after page. Political correctness has legislated our morality without the freedom to debate. This collection is a challenge to that oppressive mandate. Rendered in clear, concise, and often provocative prose and poetry, Observations, Volume One is meant to offer a balanced view of the human experience that we as spiritual beings are experiencing on this planet in this moment. People who are reaching and wanting for something more will find this collection full of judgement, understanding, forgiveness, and the hope for a better future. After all, if we can't admit our mistakes, learn from them, and strive to be better, how can we logically expect mankind to survive? The real question is: can we get past our self, our ego, and our greed to go within, change, and then help to change the world? The changes will come, one person at a time. Not with religion, war, politics, or policies. No grand schemes or legacies. One person at a time, in that moment. What will your next moment be?
