Discourses That Matter

Maria José Canelo, 2013-10-03 How can English and American Studies be instrumental to conceptualizing the deep instability we are presently facing How can they address the coordinates of this instability such as war terrorism the current economic and financial crisis and the consequent myriad forms of deprivation and fear How can they tackle the strategies of de humanization invisibility and the naturalization of inequality and injustice entailed in contemporary discourses This anthology grew out of an awareness of the need to debate the role of English and American Studies both in the present context and in relation to the so called demise of the Humanities Drawing on Judith Butler s rethinking of materiality as the effect of power in her study Bodies That Matter 1993 we locate this collection of essays at the crossroads of discourse and power while we expect the work collected here to highlight the ability of discourses to materialize in or as truth and as such to support or decry particular constituencies Discourses therefore matter to us as products and vehicles of power relations that can be subject to the analytical and interpretative tools of English and American Studies Our idea was to challenge especially young scholars to position their research concerning the ability of their fields to be discourses that matter in the case in point to be critical practices that make an active intervention in current debates By focusing on matters such as language as witness to the world representations of gender race and ethnicity performative discourses exceptionalism and power and interculturality these essays pursue the chance to deepen enlarge and question both literary and cultural phenomena their established critical readings and the strategies deployed in representations Finally English and American Studies in the present collection demonstrate their affiliation to the Humanities by exploring the numerous possibilities offered by their discourses their ability to foster critical thought allowing us to think for and outside ourselves their capacity to test argue and question and their profound imaginative potential

Ageing in Irish Writing Heather Ingman, 2018-07-18 Age is a missing category in Irish literary criticism and this book is the first to explore a range of familiar and not so familiar Irish texts through a gerontological lens Drawing on the latest writing in humanistic critical and cultural gerontology this study examines the portrayal of ageing in fiction by Elizabeth Bowen Molly Keane Deirdre Madden Anne Enright Iris Murdoch John Banville John McGahern Norah Hoult and Edna O'Brien among others The chapters follow a logical thematic progression from efforts to hold back time to resisting the decline narrative of ageing solitary ageing versus ageing in the community and dementia and the world of the bedbound and dying One chapter analyses the changing portrayal of older people in the Irish short story Recent demographic shifts in Ireland have focused attention on an increasing ageing population making this study a timely intervention in the field of literary gerontology

Two Irelands Rebecca Pelan, 2005-06-27 The very different histories of the North and South are reflected in their literature While women in the Republic of Ireland have tended to write about social issuessexism crime unemployment and domestic violencewomen in Northern Ireland focused on their society's historical tension and primarily nationalist and unionist politics However Pelan maintains that feminist ideology has provided contemporary Irish women with an alternate political stance that incorporates gender and nationality ethnicity and allows them to move beyond the usual binaries of politics history and languageIrish and English In an analysis enriched by a sophisticated but accessible engagement with contemporary feminist and gender theory Pelan concludes that Irish women's writing whether at the community or mainstream levelNorth or Southconsistently articulates political issues of direct relevance to the lives of Irish women today As a result such work retains close links with the initial impetus of the second wave of feminism as a political movement and questions the legitimacy of long standing social religious and political conventions From within the framework provided by this second wave argues Pelan Irish women can critique certain masculine ideologiesnationalist unionist imperialist and capitalistwithout forfeiting their own sense of gender and national or ethnic identity The book's significance lies in its placement of women's writing in the center of contemporary political discourse in Ireland and in ensuring that the writing from this periodmuch of it long out of printcontinues to exist as sociological as well as literary records It will be of interest to a general and scholarly audience especially those in the fields of contemporary Irish writing feminism and literary history Time Present and Time Past Deirdre Madden,2013-05-28

Fintan Buckley is a pleasant rather conventional and unimaginative man who works as a legal adviser in an import export firm in Dublin He lives in Howth and is married to Colette They have two sons who are at university and a small daughter As he goes about his life working and spending time with his family Fintan begins to experience states of altered consciousness and auditory hallucinations which seem to take him out of a linear experience of time He becomes interested in how we remember or imagine the past an interest triggered by becoming aware of early photography particularly early colour photography He also finds himself thinking more about his own past including time spent holidaying in the north of Ireland as a child with his father's family Over the years he has become distanced from them and in the course of the novel this link is re established and helps to bring him understanding and peace although in a most unexpected way Time Present and Time Past Deirdre Madden's eighth novel for adults is about time about how not just daily life and one's own or one's family's past intersect with each other

Ireland at War and Peace Alison O'Malley-Younger, John Strachan, 2011-01-18 The essays in this collection examine Ireland at war and peace from the Revival period to the present day examining key aspects of Irish literature and history culturally rich but politically turbulent from the late nineteenth century to the early twenty first century Ireland at War and Peace examines important social political and aesthetic contexts which have shaped modern Irish society and culture from the First World War and the Easter Rising of 1916 through to the Troubles and beyond A key focus is on the ideological and artistic significance of Irish culture in a wide sense the volume includes essays on the cultural significance of commodity culture and advertising in Ireland images of the child in Irish culture the importance of the horse in the Irish imagination and the manner in which narratives of eighteenth and nineteenth century Irish uprising execution and imprisonment informed Irish theatre both before and after the 1916 Uprising The book's dual focus is exemplified in its opening essays on Padraig Pearse as both rebel rousing separatist polemicist and Volunteer leader and on his related careers as dramatist story writer and educationalist Subsequent essays deal with Yeats and the Easter Rising consumer culture in James Joyce's Ulysses the riotous reception afforded J.M. Synge's Playboy of the Western World and Sean O'Casey's The Plough and the Stars and Samuel Beckett's vexed relationship with his homeland There are also important essays here on the contemporary Irish writers Seamus Heaney and Deirdre Madden The focus of the collection is wide ranging from canonical literary figures such as Joyce Beckett and Yeats modern day authors such as Heaney Paul Muldoon and Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill through to popular cultural phenomena from Dion Boucicault's nineteenth century melodrama Robert Emmet to Alan Parker's movie of Roddy Doyle's The Commitments and that great Irish sitcom Father Ted Words of Crisis, Crisis of Words María Losada Friend, Pilar Ron Vaz, Auxiliadora Pérez Vides, 2016-04-26 This volume offers a collection of papers dealing with how adversities have been tackled and expressed artistically from various perspectives in Ireland Taken together the many approaches to critical times provided here prove how surrounded by outbursts of pessimism financial hecatombs and individual and collective discouragement the academic community can find meaning in hard intellectual work and in serious updated research The chapters here are authored by scholars specialised in Irish Studies and provide reflections and discussions on the broad topic of crisis and Ireland its description and representation and the different ways in which difficulties have been discussed imagined or even solved
