Transparency in Modern American Fiction Paula Martín Salván,Sascha Pöhlmann,2024 A much needed contribution to and critique of debates in the newly emerging field of transparency studies from the perspective of American literary studies In the twenty first century transparency has become an ambiguous buzzword both in the public and the private realms e g Wikileaks and the Snowden affair social media This volume takes its cue from the emerging field of transparency studies recent scholarly work in sociology political theory and cultural studies that identifies a hegemonic rhetoric of transparency in public and political life While scholars in this new field routinely gesture toward literature as the realm where secrecy may be productive they rarely engage with literature directly and literary studies itself remains notably absent from their debates This collection of essays seeks to redress that state of affairs by focusing on literary texts written in an American cultural tradition steeped in the interplay between transparency and exposure fear and secrecy security and surveillance and information and disinformation The essays draw on authors ranging from Whitman James and Ellison to Pynchon Morrison and Eggers to argue that American literature complicates theoretical assumptions about transparency made in other disciplines They question the field's strong theoretical emphasis on present day technopolitical practices and discourses as the location of hegemonic discourse on transparency and instead historicize such phenomena and extend them to discursive spheres that have so far been neglected such as issues of sexuality and race Edited by Paula Martin and Sascha Pohlmann Contributors Tomasz Basiuk Jesus Blanco Hidalgo Cristina Chevere San Julia Faisst Michel Feith Julian Jimenez Heffernan Tiina Kalkela Juan Lopez de Luque Umberto Rossi Jelena Sesnic Toon Staes Julia Straub Alice Sundman

Secrets Elizabeth Findley Shores relates Finger's untold story exploring the secrets that connected the author to an international community of twentieth century queer literati. As a young man, Finger reveled in the easy homosociality of his London polytechnical school where he launched a student literary society in the mold of the city's private men's clubs. Throughout his life as he wandered from England to Patagonia to the United States, he tried to recreate similarly open spaces such as Gayeta, his would-be art colony in Arkansas. But it was through his idiosyncratic magazine All's Well that he constructed his most successful social network, writing articles filled with coded signals and winking asides for an inner circle of understanding readers. Capitalizing on the publishing opportunities of the day, Finger used every means available to express his twin loves: literature and men. He produced an enormous body of work, and his short semiautobiographical fiction won some critical acclaim. Ultimately, the children's book that won Finger a Newbery Medal ushered him into the public eye, ending his development as an author of serious queer literature. Shared Secrets is both the story of Finger's remarkable adventurous life and a rare look at a community of gay writers and artists who helped shape twentieth-century American culture even as they artfully concealed their own identities.
