Modeling Spatial And Economic Impacts Of Disasters:

Modeling Spatial and Economic Impacts of Disasters Yasuhide Okuyama, Stephanie E. Chang, 2004-05-18 This book brings together a collection of innovative papers on strategies for analyzing the spatial and economic impacts of disasters. Natural and human induced disasters pose several challenges for conventional modeling. For example, disasters entail complex linkages between the natural built and socio-economic environments. They often create chaos and economic disequilibrium and can also cause unexpected long-term structural changes. Dynamic interactions among agents and behavioral adjustments in a disaster become complicated. The papers in this volume make notable progress in tackling these challenges through refinements of conventional methods as well as new modeling frameworks and multidisciplinary integrative strategies. The papers also provide case study applications that afford new insights on disaster processes and loss reduction strategies. Modeling Spatial and Economic Impacts of Disasters Yasuhide Okuyama, Stephanie E.

Chang, 2013-06-29 This volume is dedicated to the memory of Barclay G. Jones, Professor of City and Regional Planning and Regional Science at Cornell University. Over a decade ago, Barclay took on a fledgling area of study: economic modeling of disasters and nurtured its early development. He served as the social science program director at the National Center for Earthquake Engineering Research (NCEER), a university consortium sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Federal Emergency Management Agency of the United States. In this capacity, Barclay shepherded and attracted a number of regional scientists to the study of disasters. He organized a conference held in the ill-fated World Trade Center in September 1995 on "The Economic Consequences of Earthquakes: Preparing for the Unexpected." He persistently advocated the importance of social science research in an establishment dominated by less-than-sympathetic natural scientists and engineers. In 1993, Barclay organized the first of a series of sessions on "Measuring Regional Economic Effects of Unscheduled Events" at the North American Meetings of the Regional Science Association International (RSAI). This unusual nomenclature brought attention to the challenge that disasters, largely unanticipated, often sudden and always disorderly, pose to the regional science modeling tradition. The sessions provided an annual forum for a growing coalition of researchers where previously the literature had been fragmentary, scattered, and episodic. Since Barclay's unexpected passing in 1997, we have continued this effort in his tradition. Advances in Spatial and Economic Modeling of Disaster Impacts Yasuhide

Okuyama, Adam Rose, 2019-11-08 This book presents essential advances in analytical frameworks and tools for modeling the spatial and economic impacts of disasters. In the wake of natural disasters such as Hurricane Katrina, the Haiti Earthquake, and the East Japan Earthquake and Tsunami, as well as major terrorist attacks, the book analyzes disaster impacts from various perspectives, including resilience, space-time extensions, and decision-making strategies, in order to better understand how and to what extent these events impact economies and societies around the world. The contributing authors are internationally recognized experts from various disciplines such as economics, geography, planning, regional science, civil engineering and risk management Thanks to the insights they provide the book will benefit not only researchers in these and related fields but also graduate students disaster management professionals and other decision makers prefectures of Japan and the non disaster region For the recursive dynamic regional CGE model the model that expanded and improved the dynamic two regional CGE model to reflect the incomplete employment conditions and the aging society is used to analyze the impacts of an earthquake and the construction of industrial clusters In the second model the interregional input output model is proposed in order to analyze the impacts of the earthquake and rapid population decline and construction of a biogas electricity power plant In the third model a new economic geography NEG model is proposed consisting of the 47 prefectures of Japan in order to investigate the impacts of the Great East Japan and Nankai megathrust earthquakes and the associated tsunami and to consider how they change the regional economies of Japan Using these three models the impacts of megathrust earthquakes and tsunamis on regional economies and reconstruction and on regional revitalization are evaluated
