International Relations and the Problem of Time Andrew R. Hom, 2020-05-26 What is time and how does it influence our knowledge of international politics For decades International Relations IR paid little explicit attention to time Recently this began to change as a range of scholars took an interest in the temporal dimensions of politics Yet IR still has not fully addressed the issue of why time matters in international politics nor has it reflected on its own use of time how temporal ideas affect the way we work to understand political phenomena Moreover IR remains beholden to two seemingly contradictory visions of time the time of the clock and a longstanding tradition treating time as a problem to be solved International Relations and the Problem of Time develops a unique response to these interconnected puzzles It reconstructs IR's temporal imagination by developing an argument that all times from natural rhythms to individual temporal experience spring from social and practical timing activities or efforts to establish meaningful and useful relationships in complex and dynamic settings In IR's case across a surprisingly wide range of approaches scholars employ narrative timing techniques to make sense of confounding processes and events This innovative account of time provides a more systematic and rigorous explanation for time in international politics It also develops provocative insights about IR s own history its key methodological commitments supposedly timeless statistical methods historical institutions and the critical vanguard of time studies This book invites us to reimagine time and in so doing to significantly rethink the way we approach the analysis of international politics

to change the world This book distinguishes between China's obviously growing economic political and military resources and how they are translated into actual influence over other states choices and policies It investigates China's influence on the small and weak developing countries in East and South Asia where China ought to have the biggest influence It shows that China tends to try to gain the support of these countries without forcing them to change their preferences or to act against their own interests but how much it succeeds is determined more by how these target countries policy makers react and by their domestic political considerations than by how skilful Chinese politicians or investors are China's influence even over these weakest states is not easily achieved suggesting that China has more difficulty exercising its newfound power in the world than we assume

State-Business Relations and Economic Transformation in South Africa and Zimbabwe Sinan Baran, 2023-06-12

In State Business Relations and Economic Transformation in South Africa and Zimbabwe Unfinished Transformation Sinan Baran examines state business relations SBRs in semi peripheral South Africa and peripheral Zimbabwe after each country's transition to majority rule to address why SBRs are likely to either consolidate or fracture in post transition communities In both countries the majority governments faced unresolved post transition divisions relating to race inequality and underdevelopment Baran analyzes the liberalisation and indigenisation policy choices intended to address these areas that are impacting the mining industries in South Africa and Zimbabwe as case studies Using comparative analysis and a Modern World Systems lens he argues that semi peripheral countries are less susceptible to pressures from domestic and external powers than peripheral countries during periods of economic transformation He further argues that China's significant political and economic presence in a peripheral country like Zimbabwe has more effect on SBRs than in a semi peripheral country like South Africa

The Will of Change Eva-Maria Maggi, 2015-10-13 In this book Eva Maria Maggi argues that the European Union EU had an impact on institutional reform processes in North Africa in cases where major domestic actors agreed She analyzes how political actors in Morocco used EU neighborhood policies to shape economic and environmental policy between 1995 and 2008 Maggi argues that it was not the design of the EU's neighborhood policies but rather the will of change of domestic actors in Morocco that determined the pace direction of reform and the extent to which the EU continues to play a role in them While Moroccan politics were indeed europeanized Maggi highlights the role of domestic actors who so effectively managed to put forth their own policy priorities and essentially moroccanized the ENP
