Modern Art & the Remaking of Human Disposition Emmelyn Butterfield-Rosen, 2021-11-09 How artists at the turn of the twentieth century broke with traditional ways of posing the bodies of human figures to reflect modern understandings of human consciousness With this book Emmelyn Butterfield Rosen brings a new formal and conceptual rubric to the study of turn of the century modernism transforming our understanding of the era's canonical works Butterfield Rosen analyzes a hitherto unexamined formal phenomenon in European art how artists departed from conventions for posing the human figure that had long been standard In the decades around 1900 artists working in different countries and across different media began to present human figures in strictly frontal lateral and dorsal postures The effect both archaic and modern broke with the centuries old tradition of rendering bodies in torsion with poses designed to simulate the human being's physical volume and capacity for autonomous thought and movement This formal departure destabilized prevailing visual codes for signifying the existence of the inner life of the human subject Exploring major works by Georges Seurat Gustav Klimt and the dancer and choreographer Vaslav Nijinsky replete with new archival discoveries Modern Art and the Remaking of Human Disposition combines intensive formal analysis with inquiries into the history of psychology and evolutionary biology In doing so it shows how modern understandings of human consciousness and the relation of mind to body were materialized in art through a new vocabulary of postures and poses

Essays on Art and Language Charles Harrison,2003-09-12 Critical and theoretical essays by a long time participant in the Art Language movement These essays by art historian and critic Charles Harrison are based on the premise that making art and talking about art are related enterprises They are written from the point of view of Art Language the artistic movement based in England and briefly in the United States with which Harrison has been associated for thirty years Harrison uses the work of Art Language as a central case study to discuss developments in art from the 1950s through the 1980s According to Harrison the strongest motivation for writing about art is that it brings us closer to that which is other than ourselves In seeing how a work is done we learn about its achieved identity we see for example that a drip on a Pollock is integral to its technical character whereas a drip on a Mondrian would not be Throughout the book Harrison uses specific examples to address a range of questions about the history theory and making of modern art questions about the conditions of its making and the nature of its public about the problems and priorities of criticism and about the relations between interpretation and judgment Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress.
