Wild Games Dennis Ray Cutchins,Eric Alden Eliason,2009 Humans understand at least some of what it means to be human both literally and figuratively in reference to wild animals Our relationships with wildlife have traditionally been expressed in terms of hunting more recently these relationships have also been manifest as efforts to prevent hunting Hunting and fishing traditions are in fact under fire by critics at the same time that they are receding of their own accord perhaps becoming even more endangered than any of the pursued animals These traditions form the major focus of Wild Games a new collection of essays that looks at the folklore and culture of various hunting and fishing practices documenting the central importance of hunting to many rural societies even in modern times Editors Dennis Cutchins and Eric Eliason contend that hunters often don t perceive of themselves as separate from the wild but rather identify strongly with a natural order integrated with rather than standing apart from the fluctuation of ecosystems And they frequently don't see wild animals as set apart but understand them as food sources competitors friendly rivals and even equals Featuring contributions from a variety of distinguished scholars and writers including an essay by the noted folklorist Simon Bronner on the culture of the deer camp a fascinating account of coyote tracking by Eric Eliason and an examination of the role of gender in outdoor life by Diane Humphrey Lueck this book shows how the traditions of hunting and fishing tend to bind hunter and prey into ancient patterns that often defy contemporary culture Book Jacket The Center of the World June Howard, 2018-10-18

Regional Writing and the Puzzles of Place Time is a study of literary regionalism It focuses on the fiction of the United States and considers the place of the genre in world literature Regionalism is usually understood to be a literature bound to the local but this study explores how regional writing shapes ways of imagining not only the neighborhood or the province but also the nation and ultimately the world Its key premise is that thinking about place always entails imagining time It analyzes how concepts crystallize across disciplines and in everyday discourse and proposes ways of revising American literary history and close readings of particular authors work It demonstrates for example the importance of the figure of the school teacher and the one room schoolhouse in local color and subsequent place focused writing Such representations embody the contested relation in modernity between localities and the knowledge they produce and books that carry metropolitan and cosmopolitan learning The volume discusses fiction from the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries including works by Sui Sin Far Edith Eaton Sarah Orne Jewett Ernest Gaines Wendell Berry and Ursula LeGuin as well as romance novels and regional mysteries Songs of the North Woods O.
