The Rebirth of Anthropological Theory Stanley R. Barrett, 2016 Attacking the illusion of simplicity which has dominated positivistic approaches and the out dated identification of anthropology with non Western primitive and tribal societies Barrett contends that power and privilege everywhere should be the basic concerns of anthropological inquiry

The Rebirth of Anthropological Theory Stanley R. Barrett, 1984-01-01 Innovative and often controversial Barrett's study ranges over the entire scope of anthropological theory It provides a fresh interpretation of the history of theory and mounts an alternative perspective built around dialectics that is eminently suitable to post colonial anthropology He argues that anthropological theory has failed to be cumulative It has been characterized by oscillation and repetition theoretical orientations have appeared and disappeared only to be discovered once again Addressing numerous conceptual contradictions which have never been resolved he introduces novel concepts such as salvage theory and backward theory and argues that in many respects anthropological theory resembles the structuralists interpretation of myth Social life he asserts is inherently contradictory although concealed by numerous mechanisms most of which reinforce the status quo Attacking the illusion of simplicity which has dominated positivistic approaches and the out dated identification of anthropology with non Western primitive and tribal societies Barrett contends that power and privilege everywhere should be the basic concerns of anthropological inquiry , The Many Lives of Transnational Law Peer Zumbansen, 2020-04-02 Sixty years after Jessup's Transnational Law Lectures this collection traces the field's development and significance to the present day

An Ethnomusicologist's Last Lecture Steven Loza, 2023-12-07 An Ethnomusicologist's Last Lecture Music and Globalism Philosophy and Religion explores the frustration of many scholars and artists with the content and directions of studies on music which continue to be mostly based on Western thought methods theories and even the modes of communicating ideas and mostly through written published works Steven Loza argues that this pattern has pervaded both philosophy and ethnomusicology fields which should be much more globally based in terms of intellectual analysis culturally diverse points of view and the recognition of multiple ways of thinking and doing He criticizes what he perceives as an intellectual hegemony and biased approach to studying music including the standards to which academics are held responsible the manner in which we and our students have had to study music and the forms by which we are pressured to present our findings many times adapting theories and ideas that have nothing to do with the cultures we are examining through a one way microscope and often a distorted lens Loza takes the reader through an assortment of historical and contemporary global examples of musical expression creative artists and thinkers looking for ways that we can assess how music both reflects and enacts culturally diverse peoples beliefs thoughts and world views anthropological study and the lit fuse that connects them until the end Inconsistencies in Greek and Roman Religion, Volume 1: Ter Unus. Isis, Dionysos, Hermes. Three Studies in Henotheism Henk Versnel, 2015-09-01 This is the first of a two volume collection of studies in inconsistencies in Greek and Roman religion Their common aim is to argue for the historical relevance of various types of ambiguity and dissonance The first volume focuses on the central paradoxes in ancient henotheism The term henotheism a modern formation after the stereotyped acclamation EIS O QEOS one is the god common to early Christianity and contemporaneous paganism denotes the specific devotion to one particular god without denying the existence of or even cultic attention to other gods After its prime in the twenties and thirties of this century the term fell into disuse Nonetheless the notion of henotheism represents one of the most remarkable and significant shifts in Graeco Roman religion and hence deserves fresh reconsideration Culture Still Matters: Notes From the Field Daniel Varisco, 2018-10-16 Varisco s Culture Still Matters Notes from the Field is on the relationship between ethnographic fieldwork and the culture concept in the ongoing debate over the future of anthropology drawing on the history of both concepts Despite being the major social science that offers a methodology and tools to understand diverse cultures worldwide scholars within and outside anthropology have attacked this field for all manner of sins including fostering colonialism and essentializing others This book revitalizes constructive debate of this vibrant field s history methods and contributions drawing on the author s ethnographic experience in Yemen It covers complicated theoretical concepts about culture and their critiques in readable prose accessible to students and interested social scientists in other fields With forewords from Bryan S Turner and Anouar Majid Out of Chaos Gerald A. Arbuckle, 1988 Stresses the fact that refounding persons are essential for the revitalization of religious life Revenge of the Windigo James Burgess Waldram, 2004-01-01 What is known about Aboriginal mental health and mental illness and on what basis is this knowing assumed This question while appearing simple leads to a tangled web of theory method and data rife with conceptual problems shaky assumptions and inappropriate generalizations It is also the central question of James Waldram s Revenge of the Windigo This erudite and highly articulate work is about the knowledge of Aboriginal mental health who generates it how it is generated and communicated and what has been and continues to be its implications for Aboriginal peoples To better understand how this knowledge emerged James Waldram undertakes an exhaustive examination of three disciplines anthropology psychology and psychiatry and reveals how together they have constructed a gravely distorted portrait of the Aboriginal Waldram continues this acute examination under two general themes The first focuses on how culture as a concept has been theorized and operationalized in the study of Aboriginal mental health The second seeks to elucidate the contribution that Aboriginal peoples have inadvertently made to theoretical and methodological developments in the three fields under discussion primarily as subjects for research and sources of data It is Waldram s assertion that despite the enormous amount of research undertaken on Aboriginal peoples researchers have mostly failed to comprehend the meaning of contemporary Aboriginality for mental health and illness preferring instead the reflection of their own scientific lens as the only means to properly observe measure assess and treat Using interdisciplinary methods the author critically assesses the enormous amount of information that has been generated on Aboriginal mental health deconstructs it and through this exercise provides guidance for a new vein of research

Anthropology Stanley R. Barrett, 1996 The second phase centred around the 1960s as new theories sprang up and methods were refined in order to cope with doubts that a scientific study of culture had been established and with the recognition that change and conflict were as prevalent as stability and harmony The third phase began in the 1970s and continues today dominated by postmodernism and feminist anthropology One of my central arguments will be that beginning in phase two and growing rapidly during phase three a gap has emerged between our theories and our methods For most of the history of anthropology our methods have talked the language of science Building Communication Theories Fred L. Casmir, 2013-10-16 Concern with various matters related to humans as they communicate has led to an increase in both research and theorizing during the second half of the 20th century As a matter of fact so many scholars and so many disciplines have become involved in this process that it is virtually impossible to understand and appreciate all that has been accomplished so far This book focuses on one important aspect of human sense making theory building and strives to clarify the thesis that theories do not develop in some sort of social intellectual or cultural vacuum They are necessarily the products of specific times insights and mindsets Theories dealing with the process of communication or communicating are tied to socio cultural value systems and historic factors that influence individuals in ways often inadequately understood by those who use them The process orientation of this book inevitably leads to an emphasis on the perceptions of human beings Thus the focus shifts from the subject or area called communication to the act of communicating Finally this volume offers insight into how the process of human sense making has evolved in those academic fields commonly identified as communication rhetoric speech communication or speech within specific socio cultural settings
