heroically audacious The Novel An Alternative History is the first attempt in over a century to tell the complete story of our most popular literary form. Contrary to conventional wisdom, the novel did not originate in 18th century England nor even with Don Quixote but is coeval with civilization itself. After a pugnacious introduction in which Moore defends innovative demanding novelists against their conservative critics, the book relaxes into a world tour of the pre-modern novel beginning in ancient Egypt and ending in 16th century China with many exotic ports of call: Greek romances, Roman satires, medieval Sanskrit novels narrated by parrots, Byzantine erotic thrillers, 5000 page Arabian adventure novels, Icelandic sagas, delicate Persian novels in verse, Japanese war stories, even Mayan graphic novels. Throughout, Moore celebrates the innovators in fiction, tracing a continuum between these pre-modern experimentalists and their postmodern progeny. Irreverent, iconoclastic, informative, entertaining, The Novel An Alternative History is a landmark in literary criticism that will encourage readers to rethink the novel.

Crisis-consciousness and the Novel Eugene Hollahan, 1992. This book examines the emergence of modern consciousness as consciousness develops historically in one cultural form: prose fiction narrative. The book represents a critical history of crisis, arguably the most characterizing single word in the modern world and a major figuration or trope. Eugene Hollahan has studied the history of this important word within the development of the English language novel from Samuel Richardson to Saul Bellow. After establishing a heuristic model for such a critical history, Hollahan tracks the word, characterized by George Eliot in Felix Holt the Radical as a great noun through two and a half centuries of narratives by major novelists, with contextualizing excursions into discourses in related fields such as autobiography, philosophy, theology, and social science. Hollahan contextualizes his study of English language narrative fiction by examining the writings of crisis rhetoricians in the eighteenth century (Thomas Paine), nineteenth century (Thomas Carlyle, J. S. Mill, and J. H. Newman), and twentieth century (Karl Barth, Edmund Husserl, T. S. Kuhn, and Richard M. Nixon). Such varied and powerful crisis rhetorics establish a matrix of language and ideas for the crisis-centered novels. Hollahan surveys these novels, including major works by Samuel Richardson, Walter Scott, Jane Austen, George Eliot, George Meredith, George Gissing, George Moore, D. H. Lawrence, E. M. Forster, James Joyce, Lawrence Durrell, Robert Coover, and Saul Bellow. Hollahan's description of the crisis trope interfaces with various critical issues such as canonical inclusion, reader response, and deconstruction. On the whole, his book acknowledges current critical issues but endeavors to remain basically a critical history. It attempts to demonstrate that the crisis-riddled modern world and the crisis-conscious novel are analogous and coeval. Crisis begins as Aristotle's term for logical plot structuring, becomes Longinus's term for emotional exacerbation, and eventually enters into a variety of critical and narrative formulations: Matthew Arnold's cultural centrality, Henry James's existential aestheticism, Lawrence's self-defining sexuality, Marshall Brown's revolutionary turning point, Paul de Man's error-ridden criticism, Floyd Merrell's cut into the primordial flux, Durrell's reborn self, and Bellow's analysis of hysterical escapism. Broadly speaking, Hollahan argues that any crisis trope will enable or even necessitate a unique confluence of writerly and readerly skills In Louis Lambert Balzac urged What a wonderful book one would write by narrating the life and adventures of a word The story Hollahan narrates fulfills Balzac s expectations as it depicts writer after writer working out influential representations of human life in terms of crisis consciousness centering upon George Eliot s great noun crisis Historically Hollahan demonstrates such consciousness comes to define modern humanity BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved 3 yan xi,2024-12-10 In the resplendent box of Jianye

The Art of Dying Deborah

Suiter Gentry, 2006 Although the representation of suicide is commonplace in literature few studies have explicitly dealt with the meaning of suicide in the works of women writers The Art of Dying applies theories concerning the division of women literary figures into angels or monsters to representative literary suicides of the nineteenth century including the suicides of women characters in works by Kate Chopin and Sylvia Plath The Awakening by Kate Chopin is often misunderstood by critics who read it using the Romantic paradigm Chopin breaks that paradigm by presenting the suicide of Edna Pontellier as heroic Suicide is a prevalent motif and theme in two works by Sylvia Plath The Bell Jar and Ariel An extensive analysis of Plath's last poem Edge portrays the suicide of the speaker as a calm and heroic act in keeping with the tone set by Chopin in The Awakening The Art of Dying concludes by exploring women's need for self actualization within the framework of love marriage and motherhood institutions that have always demanded from women an unnatural and harmful degree of unselfishness The inherent message in the works of artists such as Chopin and Plath is that women should not have to die in order to live
