Recast Dreams Class And Gender Consciousness In Steeltown:

Recast Dreams D. W. Livingstone, John Marshall Mangan, 1996 Based on the Steelworker Families and Hamilton Families Projects D W Livingstone and Marshall Mangan revise the materialist approach to group consciousness employing a Marxist Feminist perspective to discuss practices in the household sphere and the production of goods and services in the paid workplace

Retooling the Mind Factory Alan Sears, 2003-01-01 Alan Sears examines education reform in relation to a broad process of cultural and economic change His book makes the case that education reform is one aspect of a broad ranging neo liberal agenda that aims to push the market deeper into every aspect of our lives by eliminating or shrinking non market alternatives The author begins by showing that advocates of education reform have had to make the case that the current system is not working This sets the ground for an examination of the so called Common Sense Revolution a claim that drastic change was required to redesign government policies to fit a changing world Lean production methods are a crucial component of this changing world and broader social and cultural change is now required to consolidate the emerging order built on the spread of these methods Education reform is designed to recast the relations of citizenship contributing to the cultural and social change promoted through the social policy of the lean state

Getting by in Hard Times David Livingstone, Meg Luxton, June Shirley Corman, 2001-01-01 Describes the experiences of daily life for predominantly white working class women and men during the period of economic restructuring begun in the 1980s

Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism D.W. Livingstone, 2023-09-07T00:00:00Z Tipping Point for Advanced Capitalism is a pathbreaking study of the changing class makeup of the Canadian other G7 and Nordic labour forces since the 1980s documenting especially the rise of non managerial professional employees The book provides unprecedented tracking of the links between employment classes and higher levels of class consciousness including the often hidden political consciousness of corporate capitalists as well as the extent of oppositional and revolutionary consciousness among non managerial workers The large differences exposed between class conscious capitalists and these non managerial workers on issues of poverty reduction and global warming reveal the strategic roles these key class agents play in actions to defend or transform advanced capitalism The most concerted evidence based study to bring class back into grasping the intimately linked ecological economic and political crises we now face

Gendered States Ann Porter, 2003-01-01 In the period since the Second World War there has been both a massive influx of women into the Canadian job market and substantive changes to the welfare state as early expansion gave way by the 1970s to a prolonged period of retrenchment and restructuring Through a detailed historical account of the Unemployment Insurance UI program from 1945 to 1997 Ann Porter demonstrates how gender was central both to the construction of the post war welfare state as well as to its subsequent crisis and restructuring Drawing on a wide range of sources including archival material UI administrative tribunal decisions and documents from the government labour and women s groups she examines the implications of restructuring for women s equality as well as how women s groups labour and the state interacted in efforts to shape the policy agenda Porter argues that while the post war welfare state model was based on a family with a single male breadwinner the new model is one that assumes multiple family earners and encourages employability for both men and women The result has been greater formal equality for women but at the same time the restructuring and reduction of benefits have undermined these gains and made women s lives increasingly difficult Using concepts from political economy feminism and public policy this study will be of interest across a range of disciplines

Cutting Class Joe L. Kincheloe, Shirley R. Steinberg, 2007-07-12 In these vivid thought provoking essays leading scholars draw from their own life experiences to explore the ways in which socio economic class has shaped their lives and educational practices Some experienced the sting of poverty as students while others tell stories of a privileged upbringing and moments of epiphany when they recognized the far reaching effects of class privilege Many in this volume tell stories of their successful and not so successful teaching experiences with students from various social classes providing valuable insights for teachers and other education professionals

Culture, Economy, Power Winnie Lem, Belinda Leach, 2012-02-01 Grounded in a conviction that anthropological knowledge implies critique and that engaging in anthropology is also ultimately an act of praxis various contributors explore the ways in which the precepts of Marxism continue to illuminate and enhance our understanding of culture economy and politics They focus on the question of epistemology to examine the process of anthropological intellectual production in different national settings and analyze the ways in which hierarchies of power and forms of state domination figure in the formation of subjectivities in different ethnographic contexts The authors also reflect upon how class gender ethnicity racialized forms of ethnicity as well as regional and national identities are configured through the relationships involved in making a living under late capitalism

Work in Tumultuous Times Vivian Shalla, Wallace Clement, 2007-03-12 Using a progressive approach to political economy contributors propose alternative policies and practices that might secure more decent livelihoods for workers and their families

Contracting Masculinity Gillian Creese, 1999-12-15 The history of labour in Canada is most often understood to mean and presented as the history of blue collar workers especially men And it is a story of union solidarity to gain wages rights and the like from employers In Contracting Masculinity Gillian Creese examines in depth the white collar office workers union at BC Hydro and shows how collective bargaining involves the negotiation of gender class and race Over the first 50 years of the office union s existence male and female members were approximately equal in number Yet equality has ended there Women are concentrated at the lower rungs of the job hierarchy while men start higher up the ladder and enjoy more job mobility men s office work has been redefined as a wide range of technical jobs while women s work has been concentrated in a narrow range of clerical positions As well for decades Canadian Aboriginals and people of colour were not employed by BC Hydro which has resulted in a racialized gendered workplace What is the role of workers and their trade unions in constructing male and female work a process that is often seen as the outcome solely of management decisions How is this process of gendering also racialized so that women and men of different race and ethnicity are differentially privileged at work How do males in a white collar union create and maintain their own image of masculinity in the face of a feminized occupation and a more militant male blue collar union housed within the same corporation What impact does the gender composition of union leadership have on collective bargaining How do traditions of union solidarity affect attempts to bargain for greater equity in the office These are the central questions that Contracting Masculinity seeks to answer in this in depth look at a Canadian union

Critical Perspectives on Activity Peter Sawchuk, Newton Duarte, Mohamed Elhammoumi, 2006-01-16 The last two decades have seen an international explosion of interest in theories of mind culture and activity This unique collection is the first to explicitly reach back to the tradition's original critical impulse within which the writings of Karl Marx played such a central role Each author pushes this impulse further to address leading contemporary questions It includes a diverse array of international scholars working from the fields of education psychology philosophy sociology anthropology communications industrial relations and business studies Broken into three main sections education work and everyday life each chapter builds from an analysis of practice and learning as social cultural participation and historical change in relation to the concept of activity contradiction and struggle This book offers insight into an important complex of overlapping practices and institutions to shed light on broader debates over such matters as the knowledge economy and lifelong learning
