Unfinished Places: The Politics of (Re)making Cairo's Old Quarters

Gehan Selim,2016-11-10 The Emerging Politics of Re making Cairo s Old Quarters examines postcolonial planning practices that aimed to modernise Cairo s urban spaces The author examines the expanding field of postcolonial urbanism by linking the state s political ideologies and systems of governance with methods of spatial representations that aimed to transform the urban realm in Cairo Adopting an interdisciplinary approach the study draws on planning history and politics to develop a distinctive account of postcolonial planning in Cairo following Egypt s 1952 revolution The book widely connects the ideological role of a different type of politicised urbanism practised during the days of Nasser Sadat and Mubarak and the overarching policies institutions and attitudes involved in the visions for re building a new nation in Egypt By examining the notion of remaking urban spaces the study interprets the ambitions and powers of state policies for improving the spatial qualities of Cairo s old districts since the early 20th century These acts are situated in their spatial political and historical contexts of Cairo s heterogeneous old quarters and urban spaces particularly the remaking of one of the city s older quarts named Bulaq Abul Ela established during the Ottoman rule in the thirteenth century It therefore writes in a chronological sequence a narrative through time and space connecting various layers of historical and contemporary political phases for remaking Bulaq The endeavor is to explain this process from a spatial perspective in terms of the implications and consequences not only on places but also on the people s everyday practices By deeply investigating the problems and consequences the strengths and weaknesses and the state s reliability to achieve the remaking objectives the book reveals evidence that shifting forms of governance had anchored planning practices into a narrow path of creativity and responsive planning

The Fall of the Turkish Model Cihan Tugal,2016-02-23 The brief rise and precipitous fall of Islamic liberalism

Just a few short years ago the Turkish Model was being hailed across the world The New York Times gushed that prime minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan and his Justice and Development Party AKP had effectively integrated Islam democracy and vibrant economics making Turkey according to the International Crisis Group the envy of the Arab world And yet a more recent CNN headline wondered if Erdogan had become a dictator In this incisive analysis Cihan Tugal argues that the problem with this model of Islamic liberalism is much broader and deeper than Erdogan's increasing authoritarianism The problems are inherent in the very model of Islamic liberalism that formed the basis of the AKP's ascendancy and rule since 2002 an intended marriage of neoliberalism and democracy And this model can also only be understood as a response to regional politics especially as a response to the Iranian Model a marriage of corporatism and Islamic revolution The Turkish model was a failure in its home country and the dynamics of the Arab world made it a tough commodity to export Tugal's masterful explication of the demise of Islamic liberalism brings in Egypt and Tunisia once seen as the most likely followers of the Turkish model and provides a path breaking examination of their regimes and Islamist movements as well as paradigm shifting accounts of Turkey and Iran

Order and Disorder Luna Khirfan, 2017-06-07 As Middle Eastern cities weather the second decade of the twenty first century they face a number of challenges to their economic resilience competitiveness and internal stability In this uniquely tense realm for the urban public an understanding of the dynamics of decision making processes citizen power and the rule of law is critical to the direction of policy in the future In Order and Disorder Luna Khirfan weaves a cross national comparison of Amman and Cairo that dissects the many layers and complexities of urban governance Through case studies on a diverse array of development projects and their associated challenges the contributors demonstrate how three actors the state the market and civil society interact with each other within the same urban political space First they argue that interplay between the state and civil society reveals the potential of urban majorities and the discords within current participatory planning She then delves into the neoliberal dynamics between the state and the market stressing the impact of economic push and pull factors on urban landscapes The final chapters explain why the market's relationship with civil society oscillates between exclusion and alienation Throughout the book Khirfan identifies the role of an authoritarian bargain in governing every one of these interactions In light of current regional political instability in the Middle East and North Africa Order and Disorder offers an arena for extrapolating lessons from urban governance to the wider political sphere

Preserving the Old City of Damascus Faedah M. Totah, 2014-05-28 In Preserving the Old City of Damascus Totah examines the recent gentrification of the historic urban core of the Syrian capital and the ways in which urban space becomes the site for negotiating new economic and social realities The book illustrates how long term inhabitants of the historic quarter developers and government officials offer at times competing interpretations of urban space and its use as they vie for control over the representation of the historic neighborhoods Based on over two years of ethnographic and archival research this book expands our understanding of neoliberal urbanism in non western cities

Well Connected Tessa Farmer, 2023-02-14 The author taps into several scholarly traditions to examine the way people of Cairo interact with one another with the government and with social structures in order to navigate the water systems and lack thereof that affect their lives day to day The author's extensive ethnographic fieldwork during the implementation of the septic system shines through in the stories that she tells of people in the community during these transitions and as the long term impacts of the Egyptian revolution and subsequent military coup have become clearer The For the War Yet to Come Hiba Bou Akar, 2023-05-25 Through elegant ethnography and nuanced theorization gives us a new way of thinking about violence development modernity and ultimately the city Ananya Roy University of California Los Angeles Beirut is a city divided Following the Green Line of the civil war dividing the Christian east and the Muslim west today hundreds of such lines dissect the city For the residents of Beirut urban planning could hold promise a new spatial order could bring a peaceful future But with unclear state structures and outsourced public processes urban planning has instead become a contest between religious political organizations and profit seeking developers Neighborhoods reproduce poverty displacement and urban violence For the War Yet to Come examines urban planning in three neighborhoods of Beirut's southeastern peripheries revealing how these areas have been developed into frontiers of a continuing sectarian order Hiba Bou Akar argues these neighborhoods are arranged not in the expectation of a bright future but according to the logic of the war yet to come urban planning plays on fears and differences rumors of war and paramilitary strategies to organize everyday life As

Visconti, Laia Soto Bermant, Patricia Scalco, 2024-05-28

An Anthropology of Crosslocations introduces a radical new approach to understanding location. The co-authors show that the question of where something is depends on how places are mutually connected and disconnected. The location of a place can be established by different logics such as national borders, ecosystems or economic zones. These different ways of classifying the relative value and significance of a place coexist and overlap; for example, national borders are regularly crosscut by ecosystems. By thinking of location as a process defined by several different coexisting locating regimes, the book showcases a fresh way to think about the multiple and overlapping connections and disconnections between here and elsewhere. This approach can fundamentally revise ethnographic and anthropological views on the importance, value and significance of where people, things and animals are located and, as such, redefines the idea of the field. The volume brings together seven anthropologists who have worked together for six years. The chapters take the reader through a series of journeys around the Mediterranean region to North Africa, the East Mediterranean and Southern Europe. Each chapter unfolds an ethnographic or historical account of the coexistence of different values and meanings of location in different places.

The Architecture of Home in Cairo Mohamed Gamal Abdelmonem, 2016-03-03
The hawari of Cairo's narrow, non-straight alleyways are the basic urban units that have formed the medieval city since its foundation back in 969 AD. Until early in the C20th they made up the primary urban divisions of the city and were residential in nature. Contemporary hawari, by contrast, are increasingly dominated by commercial and industrial activity. This medieval urban maze of extremely short, broken, zigzag streets and dead ends are defensible territories, powerful institutions and important social systems. While the hawari have been studied as an exemplar for urban structure of medieval Islamic urbanism and as individual building typologies, this book is the first to examine in detail the socio-spatial practice of the architecture of home in the city. It investigates how people live, communicate and relate to each other within their houses or shared spaces of the alleys and, in doing so, to uncover several new socio-spatial dimensions and meanings in this architectural form. In an attempt to re-establish the link between architecture past and present and to understand the changing social needs of communities, this book uncovers the notion of home as central to understand architecture in such a city with long history as Cairo. It firstly describes the historical development of the domestic spaces indoor and outdoor and provides an inclusive analysis of spaces of everyday activities in the hawari of old

Cairo It then broadens its analysis to other parts of the city highlighting different customs and representations of home in the city at large Cairo in the context of this book is represented as the most sophisticated urban centre in the Middle East with different and sometimes contrasting approaches to the architecture of home as a practice and spatial system In order to analyse the complexity and interconnectedness of the components and elements of the hawari as a collective home it layers its narratives of architectural and social developments as a domestic environment over the past two hundred years and in doing so explores the in depth social meaning and performance of spaces both private and public Faithfully Urban Petra Kuppinger,2015-06 In the southern German city of Stuttgart lives a pious Muslim population that has merged with the local population to create a meaningful shared existence In this ethnographic account the author introduces and examines the lives of ordinary residents neighborhoods and mosque communities to analyze moments and spaces where Muslims and non Muslims engage with each other and accommodate their respective needs These accounts show that even in the face of resentment and discrimination this pious population has indeed become an integral part of the urban community
