Cardiovascular Psychophysiology Paul A. Obrist, 2012-12-06 It was my original intention to write a reasonably advanced psycho physiology text that would go beyond cardiovascular activity This I believed would require a collaborative effort since my expertise outside of cardiovascular psychophysiology is too limited After some initial limited efforts to organize such a venture it became apparent that a text of this nature was not feasible Thus the effort was dropped I did however receive encouragement to write the present monograph which is more a personalized document than a text As will become apparent this monograph relies heavily on research from my laboratory and details the manner in which our conceptualizations of the issues have developed At first I believed such an effort premature since such a personalized document was something one composes upon retirement However I was persuaded by some individuals who shall remain anonymous just in case they end up regretting their actions to undertake the present effort There are several people who have rendered assistance in the preparation of this monograph for whose efforts I am extremely grateful Extensive editorial assistance and encouragement were provided by Kathleen C Light and Alberto Grignolo Also assisting editorially were Ellen Z Curtin Allison Cahill and Carolyn Williams I wish also to thank my long time secretary Virginia Hodson and Jenny Adams for their typing assistance There are six people to whom I would like to dedicate this book

Principles of Perinatal-Neonatal Metabolism Richard M. Cowett, 2012-12-06 Over the last quarter century or so specialization within obstetrics and gynecology and pediatrics has resulted in the development of the disciplines of maternal fetal medicine and neonatology respectively A primary focus of maternal fetal medicine has been to understand the mechanisms of premature delivery and develop treatment modalities for improving the length of gestation A primary focus of neonatology has been to understand the causes of respiratory distress in the neonate Success has resulted not only in the lengthening of gestation but an improved understanding of the causes and treatment of neonatal respiratory disease With increasing success has come the necessity to understand the metabolic principles of the parturient the fetal placenta unit and the neonate These principles are clearly very important from multiple aspects Increased understanding of metabolism of the pregnant woman would explain the aberrations occurring in normal and abnormal pregnancy and improve nutritional support for the parturient A prime example of altered metabolism is the parturient with diabetes Understanding metabolism of the fetal placenta unit is necessary to increase the probability that the fetus will be born appropriate for size irrespective of the gestational age The various components of neonatal metabolism are important not only for understanding the changes in physiology and biochemistry occurring in the developing neonate but the principles by which nutritional support should be provided Fecal & Urinary Diversions Janice C.
