Bodies of Thought Ann Thomson,2008-07-03 Examining the development of a secular purely material conception of human beings in the early Enlightenment Bodies of Thought provides a fresh perspective on the intellectual culture of this period and challenges certain influential interpretations of irreligious thought and the Radical Enlightenment Beginning with the debate on the soul in England in which political and religious concerns were intertwined and ending with the eruption of materialism onto the public stage in mid eighteenth century France Ann Thomson looks at attempts to explain how the material brain thinks without the need for an immaterial and immortal soul She shows how this current of thinking fed into the later eighteenth century Natural History of Man the earlier roots of which have been overlooked by many scholars Although much attention has been paid to the atheistic French materialists their link to the preceding period has been studied only partially and the current interest in what is called the Radical Enlightenment has served to obscure rather than enlighten this history By bringing out the importance of both Protestant theological debates and medical thinking in England and by following the different debates on the soul in Holland and France this book shows that attempts to find a single coherent strand of radical irreligious thought running through the early Enlightenment coming to fruition in the second half of the eighteenth century ignore the multiple channels which composed Enlightenment thinking The Admissible Contents of Experience Katherine Hawley, Fiona Macpherson, 2011-09-07 Which objects and properties are represented in perceptual experience and how are we able to determine this The papers in this collection address these questions together with other fundamental questions about the nature of perceptual content The book draws together papers by leading international philosophers of mind including Alex Byrne MIT Alva No University of California Berkeley Tim Bayne St Catherine s College Oxford Michael Tye University of Texas Austin Richard Price All Souls College Oxford and Susanna Siegel Harvard University Essays address the central questions surrounding the content of perceptual experience Investigates how are we able to determine the admissible contents of experience Published in association with the journal Philosophical Quarterly

Philosophy and Religion in Enlightenment Britain Ruth Savage, 2012-04-26 These twelve new studies illustrate some of the techniques employed in intellectual history today Exploring themes and issues pertaining to religion philosophy and their interrelations as they exercised British thinkers in the long eighteenth century they further our understanding of the period when some of the most significant works in western philosophy were written at a time when theory and practice in science politics law and theology were evolving and there was important contact with the Continent Priority has been given to new work on primary sources Figures examined range from Locke and Hume to relatively unfamiliar personalities such as Martin Clifford Henry Scougal Samuel Haliday and Thomas Cooper Others treated include John Toland Bernard Mandeville Francis Hutcheson Joseph Butler Henry Home Adam Smith Joseph Priestley Thomas Reid and Dugald Stewart Topics include the claims of biblical authority and religious experience as sources of truth whether beliefs received on the evidence of authority e g about resurrection can be made intelligible freedom of thought and conscience in philosophical religious and political contexts shifts in the study of human nature the claims of justice and natural law Contributors include distinguished and established scholars and exciting younger talent bringing together historians of philosophy with scholars from theology literature history and political science New transcriptions of two pieces by Hume are included a new letter illustrating his later attitude to politics and religion and his early essay on ethics and chivalry
