literature emerging in the 1980s represent the dynamic processes of remembering in Cajun culture. Known for its hybrid constitution and deeply ingrained oral traditions, Cajun culture provides an ideal testing ground for investigating the collective memory of a group. In particular, francophone and anglophone Cajun texts by such writers as Jean Arceneaux, Tim Gautreaux, Jeanne Castille, Zachary Richard, Ron Thibodeaux, Darrell Bourque, and Kirby Jambon reveal not only a shift from an oral to a written tradition. They also show hybrid perspectives on the Cajun collective memory. Based on recurring references to place, the texts also reflect on the Acadian past and reveal the innate ability of the Cajuns to adapt through repeated intertextual references. The Cajun collective memory is thus defined by a transnational outlook, a transversality cutting across various ethnic heritages to establish and legitimize a collective identity both amid the linguistic and cultural diversity in Louisiana and in the face of American mainstream culture. Cajun Literature and Cajun Collective Memory represents the first analysis of the mnemonic strategies Cajun writers use to explore and sustain the Cajun identity and collective memory.

Strange Maine Michelle Y. Souliere, 2012-05-22 Maine is well known as a land of fresh air and clean water as the home of L.L. Bean and as one of the most popular camping and outdoor recreation destinations in the country. But what lies behind this idyllic facade? Unmapped roads, Whispering rocks, Deadening fog, Ghost pirates, Lonely islands, THINGS in the woods. This is the great state of Maine, home of Stephen King, land of the Great Northern Woods, and all the mystery that lies within their dark footprint. What better setting than this for tales of strange creatures, murderers, madmen, and eccentric hermits? From the Headless Halloween of 1940 to the mystery of who lies in the grave of V.P. Coolidge, from Bigfoot sightings to the witch's grave in a Portland cemetery, writer and illustrator Michelle Souliere brings to life these strange but true tales from the Pine Tree State.

Voices of the Formerly Enslaved in Louisiana Andrea Livesey, 2025-09-17 In the 1930s, thousands of formerly enslaved Americans were interviewed across the United States as part of the Works Progress Administration's Federal Writers Project. While most of those interviews were subsequently published, Louisiana's were not. Gathered here for the first time in complete and contextualized form are the full interviews with the formerly enslaved in Louisiana, the transcripts of which had been separated, fragmented, and distributed throughout archives in the state. Reassembled and analyzed by historian Andrea Livesey, the interviews are critical for understanding how Black Louisianans experienced enslavement but also resisted and built distinctive cultures, communities, and families in spite of it. Equally important is the testimony of how they negotiated emancipation and built relationships after freedom. Livesey discusses the impact of Lyle Saxon, a well-known writer who headed the Louisiana branch of the Writers Project, and Louisiana poet Marcus B. Christian, who led the segregated Black unit. Other unique aspects of the collection are interviews in Kouri Vini and Louisiana French and descriptions of Voodoo, Marie Laveau, and medicine practiced in Black communities of the era. Livesey invites readers to pay critical attention to how the interviewers may have influenced the narrative preserved in the archive through interpersonal dynamics or editing as they transcribed the interview. Alongside the extended introduction to the volume, this
