Traditional Chinese Literature Halvor Eifring, 2021-09-13 Do all cultures and historical periods have a concept corresponding to the English word emotion This collection of essays is concerned with the closest candidate within the Chinese language namely the term qing What is the meaning of this term in different periods and genres What are the types of discourse in which it is typically found This volume contains two essays on the notion of qing in classical sources two on Chan Buddhist usage and two on fiction and drama from the Ming and Qing dynasties An introductory essay discusses the complex historical development of the term Together the essays may be read as a first step towards a conceptual history of one of the key terms in traditional Chinese culture The Shaman and the Heresiarch Gopal Sukhu, 2012-08-08 The Li sao also known as Encountering Sorrow attributed to the poet statesman Qu Yuan 4th 3rd century BCE is one of the cornerstones of the Chinese poetic tradition It has long been studied as China's first extended allegory in poetic form yet most scholars agree that there is very little in the two thousand year old tradition of commentary on it that convincingly explains its supernatural flights its complex floral imagery or the gender ambiguity of its primary poetic persona The Shaman and the Heresiarch is the first book length study of the Li sao in English offering new translations of both the Li sao and the Nine Songs The book traces the shortcomings of the earliest extant commentary on those texts that of Wang Yi back to the quasi divinatory methods of the highly politicized tradition of Chinese classical hermeneutics in general and the political machinations of a Han dynasty empress dowager in particular It also offers an entirely new interpretation of the Li sao one based not on Qu Yuan hagiography but on what late Warring States period artifacts and texts including recently unearthed texts teach us about the cultural context that produced the poem In that light we see in the Li sao not only a reflection of the era of the great classical Chinese philosophers but also the breakdown of the political religious order of the ancient state of Chu

The Quest for Ecstatic Morality in Early China Kenneth W. Holloway, 2013-03-28 We are accustomed to the idea that emotions need to be controlled but the Chinese text Xing zi mingchu 300 B C E argues that setting them free allows us to develop our qing Although the development is completed with the help of the classics the result is a personal connection to the Dao The Worlds of Classical Chinese Aesthetics Paul R. Goldin, 2024-03-12 This book presents the foundations of classical Chinese aesthetic discourse roughly from the Bronze Age to the early Middle Ages with the following animating questions What is art Why do we produce it How do we judge it The arts that garnered the most theoretical attention during this time period were music poetry calligraphy and painting and this book considers the reasons why these four were privileged Whereas modern artists most likely consider themselves musicians or poets or calligraphers or painters or sculptors or architects the pre modern authors who produced the literature that established Chinese aesthetics prided themselves on being wenren cultured people conversant with all forms of art and learning Other comparisons with Western theories and works of art are presented at due junctures Key Features Addresses Chinese aesthetic discourse on its own terms Provides comparisons of key concepts and theories with examples from Western sources Includes more coverage of primary sources than any other English language book on the subject Each chapter opens with a helpful summary highlighting the chapter s key themes

The "Other" Psychology of Julian Jaynes Brian J. McVeigh,2018-01-17 In his provocative but critically acclaimed theory about the origin of introspectable mentality Julian Jaynes argued that until the late second millennium people possessed a different psychology a two chambered bicameral neurocultural arrangement in which a commanding god guided admonished and ordered about a listening mortal via voices visions and visitations Out of the cauldron of civilizational collapse and chaos an adaptive self reflexive consciousness emerged better suited to the pressures of larger more complex sociopolitical systems Though often described as boldly iconoclastic and far ahead of it time Jaynes s thinking actually resonates with a second or other psychological tradition that explores the cultural historical evolution of psyche Brian J McVeigh a student of Jaynes points out the blind spots of mainstream establishment psychology by providing empirical support for Jaynes s ideas on sociohistorical shifts in cognition He argues that from around 3500 to 1000 BCE the archaeological and historical record reveals features of hallucinatory super religiosity in every known civilization As social pressures eroded the god centered authority of bicamerality an upgraded psychology of interiorized self awareness arose during the Late Bronze Age Collapse A key explanatory component of Jaynes s theorizing was how metaphors constructed a mental landscape populated with I s and me s that replaced a declining worldview dominated by gods ancestors and spirits McVeigh statistically substantiates how linguo conceptual changes reflected psychohistorical developments because supernatural entities functioned in place of our inner selves vocabularies for psychological terms were strikingly limited in ancient languages McVeigh also demonstrates the surprising ubiquity of hearing voices in modern times contending that hallucinations are bicameral vestiges and that mental imagery a controllable semi hallucinatory experience is the successor to the divine hallucinations that once held societies together This thought provoking work will appeal to anyone interested in the transformative power of metaphors the development of mental lexicons and the adaptive role of hallucinations
