A Mother's Love Mary Morris,2012-03-07 Sometimes a writer so perfectly captures the reality of our lives that we are given a new way of seeing ourselves Mary Morris has accomplished this in A Mother s Love a novel about the solitary moral courage of a woman raising a child alone Ivy Slovak is a jewelry designer and artist whose days are absorbed by the struggle to make an unreliable paycheck cover the needs of her infant son and whose nights are broken by the demands of her newborn child Eager to rejoin the world she sees outside her window Ivy is haunted by the memory of her mother who abandoned her when she was seven years old. She recalls the years spent with her loving but itinerant father wandering the desert hoping somehow to find the troubled beautiful woman who had left them both. Moving seamlessly between Ivy's colorful past in the gambling towns of the Southwest and her difficult present in New York City, Mary Morris ponders through Ivy how we learn to be mothers and illustrates the resilience of all both men and women who raise children either on their own or with a mate. With quiet eloquence and deep compassion, A Mother's Love speaks directly to our hearts. At the same time it takes a serious look at the complex fabric of the American family and returns Mary Morris to her deserved place as one of the foremost chroniclers of the secrets and strengths of the human spirit. Love as a Collective Action Adrian Scribano, 2019-11-11. This book makes evident how love as an interstitial practice produces a set of collective practices and how through a mapping of these practices it is possible to observe the connection between the politics of sensibilities and social conflict. The book provides in the face of a global normalization of immediate enjoyment through consumption, the internationalization of fear and anxiety, the rise of post truth and a distrust regarding politics, a systematic analysis of love as an interstitial practice. This book follows a sociology of body emotions approaches within which sensations, emotions, and sensibilities are part of dialectical social structuration process. The book proposes love not only as an effect or trait of a society but also as an analytical tool for better understanding the processes of social structuring. It connects a sociology of bodies, emotions with a specific perspective on collective action and links conflictual structures and the politics of sensibilities in six Latin American countries by using a strategy of inquiry attuned to current patterns of social transformation that of digital ethnography. This work is of interest to a wide public: those who want to know which emotions are the prevailing in Latin America as well as specialists such as sociologists, political scientists, anthropologists, and all researchers and graduate students who are interested in the connections between conflict, society, and emotions. Harlequin Love Inspired Suspense November 2019 - Box Set 1 of 2 Shirlee McCoy, Debby Giusti, Liz Shoaf, 2019-11-01.
