Women and Religion in Zimbabwe Ezra Chitando, Kudzai Biri, Sophia Chirongoma, 2022-07-07 The chapters in this volume foreground the ambivalent role of religion and culture when it comes to African women's health and well-being. Reflecting on the three major religions in Africa i.e. African Indigenous Religions, Christianity and Islam, the authors illustrate how religious beliefs and practices can either enhance or hinder women's holistic progress and development. With a specific focus on Zimbabwean women's experiences of religion and culture, the volume discusses how African Indigenous Religions, Christianity and Islam tend to privilege men and understate the value of women in Africa. Adopting diverse theological, ideological and political positions, contributors to this volume restate the fact that the key teachings of different religions, often suppressed due to patriarchal influences, are a potent resource in the quest for gender justice. In sync with the goals for gender justice and women empowerment envisioned in the United Nations Agenda 2030 and Africa Agenda 2063, the contributors advocate for gender-inclusive and life-enhancing interpretations of religious and cultural traditions in Africa.

Love Poetry Out Loud Robert Alden Rubin, 2007-01-01 Presents a collection of one hundred poems about love organized into such categories as silly love songs, loves me not and failure to communicate, and includes poems by Shakespeare, Emily Dickinson and Seamus Heaney.

Punishing the Mentally Ill Bruce A. Arrigo, 2012-02-01 A powerful, sophisticated and original critique on how the disciplines of law and psychiatry behave and on how the mental health and justice systems operate. Punishing the Mentally Ill reveals where, how and why the identity and humanity of persons with psychiatric disorders are consciously and unconsciously denied. Author Bruce A. Arrigo contends that despite periodic and well-intentioned efforts at reform, the current law psychiatry system functions to punish the mentally ill for being different. The book synthesizes a wide range of mainstream and critical literature in sociology, law, philosophy, history, psychology and psychoanalysis to establish a new theory of punishment at the law psychiatry divide. To situate the analysis, enduring psycholegal issues are explored, including the meaning of mental illness, definitions and predictions of dangerousness, the ethics of advocacy, the right to community-based treatment, the logic of forensic courtroom verdicts, transcarceration and the execution of mentally disordered offenders, among others. Punishing the Mentally Ill shows that current mental disability law, research, programming and policy are seriously flawed and that wholesale reform is necessary if the goals of citizen justice, social well-being and humanism are to be realized.

Passions of a Youth Bill O'Sullivan, 2003 This is a fast-moving adventure story of a British youth, Bill McCann, born in India, who joins the Royal Indian Navy in the forties. He was involved in the Royal Indian Naval Mutiny of 1946 and describes a hurricane in which his ship was almost lost. He recalls his involvement in the passion of the romances while ashore. He goes on to explain where he was and what he was doing at the time of the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi. He tells of his experience of a number of post-war cruises. He describes his involvement in the romances while ashore. He witnesses and tells of the partition of the Royal Indian Navy into separate navies for two independent countries He has love affairs with women in most ports but his main ambition is to leave the harsh discipline of the naval life behind him After seven years in the navy he fulfills his ambition and joins a passenger ship where he exploits with women passengers and stewardesses all but kill him He signs off the ship and returns to England contemplating a monk like existence only to discover that he cannot hide from the temptations of the flesh that surrounds him He now comes to the conclusion that the escapades in his life are too much for him After much thought he develops quite a successful plan on how to combat the situation The plan eventually changes his whole way of life thereby allowing him to live a normal life
