Nationalism, Ethnicity, and Political Development Consiglio nazionale delle ricerche (Italy), 1991 State, Nation and Ethnicity in Contemporary South Asia Ishtiaq Ahmed, 1998-01-01 Preface Human Rights Mechanism in South Asia Shveta Dhaliwal, 2016-10-04 Shveta Dhaliwal teaches at the Rajiv Gandhi National University of Law Punjab Patiala India Her areas of specialisation are geopolitics regional human rights systems comparative political thought and international relations She has published more than 40 research papers and presented over 150 papers in international and national conferences She has authored and three edited books to her credit She is member of the Indian Political Science Association and the Indian Society of International Law and South Asian Foundation Kashmir and Sindh Suranjan Das, 2001 Professor Das provides a fascinating study on the issue of ethnic politics in multi ethnic Third World countries and the non convergence of state and nation in this discussion of the Kashmir and Sindh questions The artificial de colonization process in the South Asian sub continent resulted in the construction of national frontiers for its two successor states that did not rest on a synchronization of ethnic and state boundaries Consequently cross border loyalties amongst significant sections of the population survived the boundaries imposed between the two successor states When in the context of centralizing nation building strategies ethnic political assertions occur in outlying or frontier areas of these nation states the distinction between domestic and external affairs or between home and foreign politics tends to lose its significance in the traditional sense Political actors from across the borders of neighbouring state can then deny the marks of their different objective nationalities and treat themselves as members of a single loyalty group Thus ethnic politics transcends its domestic contours and helps foment regional tensions In such circumstances ethnic assertions tend to constitute vital local or domestic ingredients that define the national security priorities within a particular region The current insurrection in Kashmir and turmoil in Sindh superbly demonstrate this pattern Government Policies and Ethnic Relations in Asia and the Pacific Michael E.

Peace Processes and Peace Accords Samir Kumar Das,2005-11-05 The second volume in the South Asian Peace Studies series Peace Processes and Peace Accords looks at the political question of peace from three perspectives the process of peace the contentious issues involved in the peace process and the ideologies that come in conflict in this process Arguing that peace is not a one time event to be achieved and rejoiced over but a matter to be sustained against various odds the contributors show that the sustainability of peace depends on a foundation of rights justice and democracy Peace accords they maintain are only a moment in the process the very act of signing an accord could mark either a continuation of the same conflict or simply its metamorphosis Therefore as this volume shows negotiation should be redefined as joint problem solving on a long term sustained basis rather than one off hard bargaining

Ethnic Mobilisation and Violence in Northeast India Pahi

Saikia,2020-11-29 The book is a very detailed work on the relationship between movements for autonomy by indigenous peoples the so called tribes and violence in Assam in northeast India The book addresses some of the reasons for the failure of ethnic conflict management and for the frequent emergence of violence in the region In particular the historical description of movements by the Dimasas Misings and Bodos is well compiled and provides a good summary for the readers At the same time the work offers a good understanding of ethnic violence in contemporary India The volume offers some new research data based on comparative analysis of different trajectories followed by three important movements among Assam s ethnic minorities While the pieces of the argument are based on the existing literature on ethnic violence and contentious politics they are effectively connected to materials drawn from northeast India Furthermore the book raises significant concerns on the debates on crafting of decentralised institutions and executive opportunities that may facilitate ethnic accommodation thereby reducing the likelihood of such groups to pursue their goals through channels that are radical or extreme
