Juricultural Pluralism vis-à-vis Treaty Law Sandra L.

Bunn-Livingstone, 2002-03-01 The way in which legal culture has been defined in the past has limited comparative processes to law itself The author proposes a new term juriculture defined as the axiological and behavioural formula which pertains to the law This new definition provides a comparative tool which focuses on ontological and epistemological bases of law and concomitant legal theories which are distilled from these philosophical bases in addition to primary and secondary rules and written laws This book tackles the crucial issue of how divergent individual State and Regional cultures impact the international legal system in the law and State practice vis vis treaty interpretation and reservations An empirical analysis of cases in the Iran U S Claims Tribunal and six human rights treaties demonstrate that beyond weak juricultural pluralism which the international legal system provides for there is also strong juricultural pluralism which is not envisaged by the system This highlights the tension between universality and diversity in both primary and secondary rules and international law itself This book is a must for those interested in human rights treaty law culture and legal theory

Knowledges Born in the Struggle Boaventura de Sousa Santos, Maria

Meneses, 2019-10-17 In a world overwhelmingly unjust and seemingly deprived of alternatives this book claims that the alternatives can be found among us These alternatives are however discredited or made invisible by the dominant ways of knowing Rather than alternatives therefore we need an alternative way of thinking of alternatives Such an alternative way of thinking lies in the knowledges born in the struggles against capitalism colonialism and patriarchy the three main forms of modern domination In their immense diversity such ways of knowing constitute the Global South as an epistemic subject The epistemologies of the South are guided by the idea that another world is possible and urgently needed they emerge both in the geographical north and in the geographical south whenever collectives of people fight against modern domination

Learning from and with the epistemic South suggests that the alternative to a general theory is the promotion of an ecology of knowledges based on intercultural and interpolitical translation International Law in Historical Perspective J. H. W. Verzijl, 1970-12-31 Questions of international law Hanna Bokorné Szegő, 1986 International Law: Achievements and Prospects Federico Mayor, Mohammed Bedjaoui, 2023-12-28 The arrival of the International Law Achievements and Prospects can fairly be described as a major event in international legal publishing. It has been written by international lawyers from the North, the South, the East and the West whose differing origins and different or even opposed academic backgrounds have ensured that the book encapsulates and brings into focus the main forms of civilization and the principal legal systems of the world. The book's most distinctive feature is its international, multi-cultural and polyphonic nature. International Law Achievements and Prospects aims to inform and to educate, to make the discipline of international law accessible to a very broad public and to promote a meeting of minds on fundamental notions, key concepts and the guiding principles of international law over and beyond frontiers, ideologies and doctrines. In addition, it is intended to provide a framework for thought to describe what international law is today, to specify its nature, define its purpose and show its strengths and also to point out its weaknesses. All the contributing authors are or have been practitioners of international law. Their contributions express a global view of international law which helps to unravel the complex reality of the contemporary world. International Law Achievements and Prospects has been produced under the auspices of UNESCO; its content also aspires to reflect in some measure the imprint of that Organization's sponsorship. Guide to International Legal Research, 2009 The Decolonization of International Law Matthew Craven, 2007 Against the backdrop of decolonisation and the territorial adjustments of the 1990s, the issue of state succession continues to be a complex focal point for public international law. This book reassesses the foundations of the law of succession, assessing the attempts and failures to achieve a codified body of law. Constitutional Reform and International Law in Central and Eastern Europe Rein Müllerson, Malgosia Fitzmaurice, Mads Andenas, 2023-07-10 The recent developments in central and eastern Europe have changed the political landscape of the world. The dissolution of the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, the collapse of Communism in Europe, market reforms and the processes of democratisation are all seminal events affecting not only the countries in transition but other states as well. All these changes presuppose fundamental legal reforms. In this process, most of the countries in transition have adopted new constitutions where issues of participation in the international political order and questions of international law enjoy a prominent place. This book is one outcome of many research activities concerning these transitions in central and eastern Europe at the Centre of European Law, King's College London. It contains essays about constitutional reforms and international law by leading international judges and academics. It is edited by Mads Andenas, Director of the Centre of European Law at King's College London; Malgosia Fitzmaurice, Reader in International Law at Queen Mary and Westfield College London; and Rein Müllerson, Professor in International Law at King's College
