Reinterpreting and Remapping Philosophy, Evolutionism and Religion in Late Qing Missionary's Translation of The Making of a Man

Abstract: Between the Boxer Movement and the 1911 Revolution, missionaries in China confronted distinct social challenges compared to their counterparts in home countries. In response, American missionary Young John Allen and his Chinese assistant, Van Yi, co-translated James Wideman Lee's The Making of a Man into Chinese as Ren Xue. This translation aimed to counter Spencer's social evolutionism, introduced by native intellectuals like Yan Fu, offering a reinterpretation of the relationships among individuals, nations, and God. Additionally, it sought to remap philosophy, evolutionism, ethics, and religion tailored for late Qing China. In contrast to clergymen in America and China, Chinese native intellectuals developed their unique reinterpretations and reshaping of philosophy, science, evolutionism, ethics, and religion for China. Through a cross-comparison of works by Yan Fu, Huxley, Spencer, Lee and Allen, this study explored the diverse responses to Spencer's evolutionary theory and related issues among the advocates of evolutionism, Chinese intellectuals, and clergies in America and China.

1.1. Literature Review

Early research on Young John Allen¹, mostly from American scholars as well as Allen's family, focused on his missionary life and main contributions in China. Allen's own diary (Allen 1953), Diary of a Voyage to China 1859–1860, provided a detailed account of his challenging and lengthy journey to China, accompanied by his wife and daughter. Candler (1931) commemorated Allen's life in Young John Allen: The Man who Seeded China, offering a biographical perspective. Bennett (1983), in Missionary Journalist in China: Young John Allen and His Magazines, 1860–1883, presented a comprehensive introduction to Allen's editorial engagements, mainly on The Church News and *The Review of the Times*².

Previous studies on Allen's translation can be categorized into research on his translation activities as a whole and research on specific translation works.

Liang (1978) conducted a case study on Allen in Young J. Allen in China: His Careers and the Wai-kuo Kung-pao, exploring his multifaceted roles as a missionary, educator, and journalist. Zha (1977) gave a description of Allen's life and activities in China. L. Wang (1997) regarded Allen as a representative of American missionaries, exploring his newspaper ventures in various chapters of American Missionaries and Modernization of China in the Late Qing Dynasty. Xiong (1994), in The Dissemination of Western Learning and the Late Qing Society, dedicated a separate chapter that delved into Allen's contributions towards enlightening people through his writings and ideas.

Studies on Allen, from the translation perspective, primarily focused on the motives, strategies, and impacts of his translation activities, on the relations between the original
