Remember March:

Sherman's March in Myth and Memory Edward Caudill, Paul Ashdown, 2009-10-16 General William Tecumseh Sherman's devastating March to the Sea in 1864 burned a swath through the cities and countryside of Georgia and into the history of the American Civil War. As they moved from Atlanta to Savannah, destroying homes, buildings, and crops, killing livestock, and consuming supplies, Sherman and the Union army ignited not only southern property but also imaginations in both the North and the South. By the time of the general's death in 1891, when one said "The March," no explanation was required. That remains true today. Legends and myths about Sherman began forming during the March itself and took more definitive shape in the industrial age in the late nineteenth century. Sherman's March in Myth and Memory examines the emergence of various myths surrounding one of the most enduring campaigns in the annals of military history. Edward Caudill and Paul Ashdown provide a brief overview of Sherman's life and his March, but their focus is on how these myths came about, such as one description of a 60-mile wide path of destruction, and how legends about Sherman and his campaign have served a variety of interests. Caudill and Ashdown argue that these myths have been employed by groups as disparate as those endorsing the Old South aristocracy and its Lost Cause and by others who saw the March as evidence of the superiority of industrialism in modern America over a retreating agrarianism. Sherman's March in Myth and Memory looks at the general's treatment in the press, among historians on stage and screen, and in literature from the time of the March to the present day. The authors show us the many ways in which Sherman has been portrayed in the media and popular culture and how his devastating March has been stamped into our collective memory.

The Correspondence of Sarah Morgan and Francis Warrington Dawson, with Selected Editorials Written by Sarah Morgan for the Charleston News and Courier Sarah Morgan Dawson, Francis Warrington Dawson, 2004 The private and public writings in this volume reveal the early relationship between renowned Civil War diarist Sarah Morgan 1842 1909 and her future husband Francis Warrington Dawson 1840 1889 Gathered here is a selection of their letters along with various articles that Morgan wrote anonymously for the Charleston News and Courier which Dawson owned and edited In January 1873 Morgan met Frank Dawson an English expatriate Confederate veteran and newspaperman By then Morgan had left her native Louisiana and was living near Columbia South Carolina with her younger brother James Morris Morgan When Sarah Morgan and Frank Dawson met he was mourning the recent death of his first wife She in turn was still grieving over her family's many wartime losses. The couple's relationship came to encompass both the personal and the professional. To free Morgan from an unhappy dependence on her brother, Dawson urged her to write professionally for his paper. During 1873, Morgan wrote more than seventy pieces on such topics as French and Spanish politics, race relations, the insanity plea, funerals, and fashion gossip, editorials that caused a sensation in Charleston. Only after attaining financial independence through her secret newspaper career did Morgan marry Frank Dawson in 1874. Morgan's commentary gives us a candid portrayal of the way one southern woman viewed her postwar world even as she struggled to find her place in it.
