Seeing Berger A Reevaluation Of Ways Of Seeing By Fuller Peter:

Seeing Berger Peter Fuller,1981 In this incisive counter polemic Peter Fuller underlines what is most valuable in Berger's criticism while attacking the art ideologists who would negate the existence of any aesthetic experience He succinctly argues the case for a materialistic understanding of art and its value which moves beyond ideology and permits one to confront the masterpiece the work of art which breaks free from the norms of tradition and transcends its time back cover

Abstraction in Post-War British Literature 1945-1980 Natalie Ferris,2022-03-29 In a catalogue note for the 1965 exhibition Between Poetry and Painting at the Institute of Contemporary Arts the poet Edwin Morgan probed the relationship between abstraction and literature Abstract painting can often satisfy but abstract poetry can only exist in inverted commas Language may be fragmented rearranged or distorted abstract in so far as it is withdrawn from a particular system of knowledge but Morgan was of the mind that to be wholly disruptive was to deprive a poem of its point as an object of contemplation Whilst abstract art may have come to fulfil or fortify an impression of post war taste abstraction in literature continued to be treated with suspicion But how does this speak to the extent to which Britain's literary culture was responsive to progress compared to its artistic culture

Abstraction in Post War British Literature 1945 1980 traces a line of literary experimentation in post war British literature that was prompted by the aesthetic philosophical and theoretical demands of abstraction Spanning the period 1945 to 1980 it observes the ways in which certain aesthetic advancements initiated new forms of literary expression to posit a new genealogy of interdisciplinary practice in Britain At a time in which Britain became conscious of its evolving identity within an increasingly globalised context this study accounts for the range of Continental and Transatlantic influences in order to more accurately locate the networks at play Exploring the contributions made by individuals such as Herbert Read Ian Hamilton Finlay and Christine Brooke Rose as well as by groups of practitioners It brings a wide range of previously unexplored archival material into the public domain and offers a comprehensive account of the evolving status of abstraction across cultural institutional and literary contexts postwar Europe As a novelist he won the Booker prize in 1972 donating half his prize money to the Black Panthers As a TV presenter he changed the way we looked at art with Ways of Seeing As a storyteller and political activist he defended the rights and dignity of workers migrants and the oppressed around the world Far from dragging politics into art he wrote in 1953 art has dragged me into politics He remained a revolutionary up to his death in January 2017 Built around a series of watersheds at once personal and historical A Writer of Our Time traces Berger's development from his roots as a postwar art student and polemicist in the Cold War battles of 1950s London through the heady days of the 1960s when the revolutions were not only political but sexual and artistic to Berger's reinvention as a rural storyteller and the long hangover that followed the rise and fall of the New Left Drawing on first hand unpublished interviews and archival sources only recently made available Joshua Sperling digs beneath the moments of controversy to reveal a figure of remarkable complexity and resilience The portrait that emerges is of a cultural innovator as celebrated as he was often misunderstood and a writer increasingly driven as much by what he loved as by what he opposed A Writer of Our Time brings the many faces of John Berger together repatriating one of our great minds to the intellectual dramas of his and our time John Berger Andy Merrifield, 2013-02-15 With a career in literature and art spanning more than sixty years John Berger is characterized by an independent and anti institutional approach to creativity Working in a range of media including novels painting essays and scriptwriting Berger's voice has resounded through mainstream and alternative culture alike He is perhaps best known for his seminal book of art criticism Ways of Seeing published in 1972 Tied directly into a four part BBC television series the book presented a radical new interpretation of Western cultural aesthetics In the same year Berger's experimental novel G was awarded the Man Booker Prize for Fiction cementing his reputation as a boundary pushing writer and thinker In this concise yet detailed study of Berger's life and work the first for decades Andy Merrifield sheds light on Berger the man the artist and the concerned citizen Merrifield shows Berger to be a figure who constantly strives to open up new horizons and also reveals the depth of feeling that infuses even his most intellectual work In this sense Berger is a creator who feels reality like the irrationalist Rousseau yet is also a meticulous realist probing objects critically and rationally like Spinoza John Berger stitches together art literature biography and politics into a lucid coherent whole The result is a reader friendly freewheeling narrative which gives fascinating insight into one of the most influential thinkers of our times The book is essential reading for students and scholars of art literature and twentieth century culture Left Shift John A. Walker, 2001-12-21 John Walker brings to vivid life a neglected period in twentieth century art history He re creates a time when visual fine artists under the impact of left wing politics women's liberation and the gay movement were seeking to re establish a social purpose His story is one of a struggle for art by contending factions in the art world in which artists curators critics and organisations both establishment and alternative key exhibitions galleries and magazines all play a part He offers welcome insight into the work of the key players and the many forms they used to express radical engagement in

Donald Richardson,2023-08-18 Responding to many recent calls for redress and restitution Richardson summarises the historical and current situation and attributes its problematics to the fact that theorists and historians have taken the concept art as a generic that includes both design and craft which are actually and validly distinguishable from art by application of the concept functional or else ignored the two entirely Considering the concept functional he maintains calls into question the view that the three may be sub classes of the one class whereas in a work of art typically there is a resolution of the tension between form and content in works of design and craft the resolution is between form and function How this recognition can clarify the issue informs the entire book The book s other major thesis is the realisation that aesthetic values are inherently human and that therefore they apply not only to art but to life in general Far from being frivolous or a mere emotion the aesthetic is a sense of equivalent psychic status to sight and hearing and like them is employed at almost every moment of our daily lives which fact grounds art design and craft deeply in human life This is reflected in the universal use of the human form including the exhibition of sexual characteristics in art The eternal conflict between making art and making a living from making art is examined and contrasted to the rarely recognised but positive role of design in planning and industry Richardson also critiques common theories of representation and composition including creativity Albertian perspective and scientific and geometric theories of beauty and composition also the relevance of the camera and the computer in the field Masterplots II.: Sha-Z Frank Northen Magill,1989 A digest of plots and critiques of 318 twentieth century nonfiction works in the areas of autobiography memoirs philosophy anthropology psychology and other subjects for the non specialist reader Publisher s catalog Vision on John Wyver,2007 Vision On narrates the turbulent yet distinguished history of one of the fundamental pillars of British broadcasting the arts This volume chronicles the years of dynamic and often controversial collaboration between broadcasters and the Arts Council a key player in bringing art films to the wider public audience Beginning with the earliest TV documentaries the arts became central to the remit of public broadcasters and by the 1980s Channel 4 and the Arts Council were boldly redefining the relationship of the arts and the media by commissioning and airing exclusive and innovative films With detailed discussion of the cultural role of television programmes such as Civilisation 1966 and Arena 1974 onwards close analysis of over 25 films and exclusive access to the Arts Council's collection of the 450 films supported between 1953 and 1999 this volume illuminates the vanguard role the arts have played in the proud history of British public broadcasting and attempts to locate the place of arts broadcasting in today's multi channel multi media world
