U.S. Naval Gunfire Support in the Pacific War Donald K. Mitchener, 2021-07-28 On November 20 1943 the U S military invaded the Tarawa Atoll of the Gilbert Islands as part of the first American offensive in the Central Pacific region during World War II This invasion marked more than one first as it was also the introductory test of a doctrine developed during the interwar years to address problems inherent in situations in which amphibious assaults required support by naval gunfire rather than land based artillery In this detailed study Donald K Mitchener documents and analyzes the prewar development of this doctrine as well as its application and evolution between the years 1943 1945 The historical consensus is that the test at Tawara was successful and increased the efficiency with which U S forces were able to apply the doctrine in the Pacific theater for the remainder of the Second World War Mitchener challenges this view arguing that the reality was much more complex He reveals that strategic concerns often took precedence over the lessons learned in the initial engagement and that naval planners failure to stay up to date with the latest doctrinal developments and applications sometimes led them to ignore these lessons altogether U S Naval Gunfire Support in the Pacific War presents an important analysis that highlights the human cost of misinterpreting strategic and tactical realities

The War in the Pacific Philip A. Crowl, Edmund G. Love, 1995 Seizure of the Gilberts and Marshalls United States Army Center of Military History, 2015-02-10 A study in amphibious warfare that describes how the imperfections of American amphibious doctrine first revealed at Tarawa and Makin were corrected in the highly successful landings on Kwajalein and Roi Namur Eagle Against the Sun Ronald H. Spector, 2020-11-03 The best book by far on the Pacific War The New York Times Book Review this classic one volume history of World War II in the Pacific draws on declassified intelligence files British American and Japanese archival material and military memoirs to provide a stunning and complete history of the conflict This superbly readable insightful gripping Washington Post Book World contribution to WWII history combines impeccable research with electrifying detail and offers provocative interpretations of this brutal forty four month struggle Author and historian Ronald

H Spector reassesses US and Japanese strategy and shows that the dual advance across the Pacific by MacArthur and Nimitz was more a pragmatic solution to bureaucratic doctrinal and public relations problems facing the Army and Navy than a strategic calculation. He also argues that Japan made its fatal error not in the Midway campaign but in abandoning its offensive strategy after that defeat and allowing itself to be drawn into a war of attrition. Spector skillfully takes us from top secret strategy meetings in Washington, London and Tokyo to distant beaches and remote Asian jungles with battle weary GIs. He reveals that the US had secret plans to wage unrestricted submarine warfare against Japan months before Pearl Harbor and shows that MacArthur and his commanders ignored important intercepts of Japanese messages that would have saved thousands of lives in Papua and Leyte. Throughout Spector contends that American decisions in the Pacific War were shaped more often by the struggles between the British and the Americans and between the Army and the Navy than by strategic considerations. Spector vividly recreates the major battles, little known campaigns and unfamiliar events leading up to the deadliest air raid ever, adding a new dimension to our understanding of the American war in the Pacific and the people and forces that determined its outcome.

Over the Beach Donald W. Boose, 2008. Over the Beach written by historian and retired Army Colonel Donald W. Boose Jr. is the definitive history of the extensive but little known US Army amphibious operations during the Korean War, 1950-1953. Building on its extensive experience in World War II, the Army conducted three major landing operations during the war, including the assault at Inchon in September 1950. After the massive Chinese attacks two months later, the Army executed a series of amphibious withdrawals as it fell back to more defensible positions farther down the peninsula. Throughout the war, the Army also conducted a number of massive and complex over-the-shore logistical operations as well as several amphibious special operations along the Korean littoral. Colonel Boose's work, commissioned by DAMO ODG Operations and Technology Office, provides the historical context for any subsequent amphibious operations on the Korean peninsula. As such, this thought-provoking study may provide insights to modern planners crafting future joint or combined operations in that part of the world.
