published her first work in the Indian Territory newspaper Twin Territories which she edited for much of its brief run. This publication promoted the literary works of Muskogee Creek poet Chinnubbie Harjo, Alexander Posey, Cherokee historian Joshua Ross, and Muskogee Creek chief Pleasant Porter. In the advice column "What the Curious Want to Know," Eddleman Reed answered readers from around the country who had ignorant impressions of Indian Territory and whose questions notably she did not include. Such columns were accompanied by pieces that amount to some of the earliest Native historiography by an American woman claiming Indigenous heritage. Twin Territories was directed at both Natives and non-Natives and had a national readership. The heterogeneous form of the newspaper gave room for healthy internal debate on controversial ideas like Indigenous sovereignty and assimilation, affirming Native Americans as a significant diverse collective. In this first book of Eddleman Reed's work, Cari M. Carpenter and Karen L. Kilcup revive the writings of an important author, publisher, and activist for Cherokee rights.

Through these vignettes, she says her goodbyes, notes her thanks, and provides advice for those who may have experienced the death of a spouse. This collection provides insight into how she survived the death of her husband, came to know and believe in the saving grace of God, and made the decision to stay on this earth to fulfill God's wishes. Emotional and self-disclosing, Love Letters shares Savage's personal message of living each day with no regrets. Through her life events, she expresses how placing your trust in the Lord can guide you through life's bad moments and help you to fully appreciate life's good moments.
