Native To Nowhere Sustaining Home And Community In A Global Age:

Native to Nowhere Timothy Beatley, 2004 Meaningful places offer a counterbalance to the forces of globalization that is overtaking our world and are an essential element in the search for solutions to current sustainability challenges Beatley draws on extensive research to offer a practical examination of the concepts of place and place building in contemporary life

The Oxford Handbook of Urban Planning Randall Crane, Rachel Weber, 2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making

Livability and Sustainability of Urbanism Bagoes Wiryomartono, 2019-07-09 This book is a fascinating wide reaching interdisciplinary examination of urbanism in the context of humanities and social sciences research comprising cutting edge theoretical and empirical investigations of urban livability and sustainability Urban livability is explored as a phenomenon of happenings that gather people things and domains in the specific spatiotemporal context of the city this context is the life world of urbanism Meanwhile sustainability is conceived of as the capacity of urbanism that enables people to cultivate their sociocultural and economic existence and development without the depletion of their current resources in the future In this study phenomenology is uniquely incorporated as a way of seeing things according to their presence in space and time

Regenerating Cities Maria Elena Zingoni de Baro, 2022-01-18 This book sets out the discussion on how cities can contribute solutions to some of the challenges the urbanised world is facing such as the pressure of growing populations mitigation of effects of and adaptation to globally changing environmental climate and public health conditions Presenting a detailed explanation of the causes behind the current state of modern cities the book advocates for a paradigm shift to improve the quality of life of ever increasing urban inhabitants whilst nourishing the natural systems that sustain human and non human life in the planet Recognising the precious role that nature plays in the functioning of cities it delves into the study of biophilic design and regenerative development The book argues that these social ecological design approaches can act as catalysts to develop conditions in urban settings that are beneficial for natural and human systems to thrive and flourish both in ecosystem services and social cultural systems This is particularly relevant for the design of new quality precincts or the regeneration of degraded urban spaces to promote health wellbeing and urban resilience A framework is proposed to guide the process of thinking about designing and building healthier more liveable and resilient urban environments that raise the quality of life in cities The method can be used by researchers practitioners urban designers urban planners architects and landscape architects interested in developing their work within a social ecological perspective It can also be used by local governments and agencies to underpin policy making and by educational institutions to prepare graduates with necessary skills to respond to current and future built environment challenges The Urban Design Reader Michael Larice, Elizabeth Macdonald, 2013-05-07 The second edition of The Urban Design Reader draws together the very best of classic and contemporary writings to illuminate and expand the theory and practice of urban design Nearly 50 generous selections include seminal contributions from Howard Le Corbusier Lynch and Jacobs to more recent writings by Waldheim Koolhaas and Sorkin Following the widespread success of the first edition of The Urban Design Reader this updated edition continues to provide the most important historical material of the urban design field but also introduces new topics and selections that address the myriad challenges facing designers today The six part structure of the second edition guides the reader through the history theory and practice of urban design The reader is initially introduced to those classic writings that provide the historical precedents for city making into the twentieth century Part Two introduces the voices and ideas that were instrumental in establishing the foundations of the urban design field from the late 1950s up to the mid 1990s These authors present a critical reading of the design professions and offer an alternative urban design agenda focused on vital and lively places The authors in Part Three provide a range of urban design rationales and strategies for reinforcing local physical identity and the creation of memorable places These selections are largely describing the outcomes of mid century urban design and voicing concerns over the placeless quality of contemporary urbanism The fourth part of the Reader explores key issues in urban design and development Ideas about sprawl density community health public space and everyday life are the primary focus here Several new selections in this part of the book also highlight important international development trends in the Middle East and China Part Five presents environmental challenges faced by the built environment professions today including recent material on landscape urbanism sustainability and urban resiliency The final part examines professional practice and current debates in the field where urban designers work what they do their roles their fields of knowledge and their educational development The section concludes with several position pieces and debates on the future of urban design practice This book provides an essential resource for students and practitioners of urban design drawing together important but widely dispersed writings Part and section introductions are provided to assist readers in understanding the context of the material summary messages impacts of the writing and how they fit into the larger picture of the urban design field

New Geographies of the American West William Riebsame Travis, 2007-05-11

Reconciling explosive growth with often majestic landscape defines New Geographies of the American West Geographer William Travis examines contemporary land use changes and development patterns from the Mississippi to the Pacific and assesses the ecological and social outcomes of Western development Unlike previous boom periods dependent on oil or gold the modern population explosion in the West reflects a sustained passion for living in this specific landscape But the encroaching exurbs ranchettes and ski resorts are slicing away at the very environment that Westerners cherish Efforts to manage growth in the West are usually stymied at the state and local levels Is it possible to improve development patterns within the West's traditional anti planning pro growth milieu or is a new model needed Can the region develop sustainably protecting and managing its defining wildness while benefiting from it too Travis takes up the challenge suggesting that functional and attractive settlement can be embedded in preserved lands working landscapes and healthy ecologies

Buffalo Inc. Sebastian Felix Braun, 2013-01-29 Buffalo as a business on the Cheyenne River Sioux Reservation Some American Indian tribes on the Great Plains have turned to bison ranching in recent years as a culturally and ecologically sustainable economic development program This book focuses on one enterprise on the Cheyenne River Sioux Reservation to determine whether such projects have fulfilled expectations and how they fit with traditional and contemporary Lakota values Drawing upon on site fieldwork and using anthropological economic and ecological approaches Sebastian Felix Braun examines the creation of Pte Hca Ka Inc and its management styles as they evolved over fifteen years He paints a compelling picture of cultural change Braun traces Pte Hca Ka from its origin as a self sustaining project that sought to combine traditional values with modern technology He shows how the company tried to operate on cultural and ecological ideals until the tribal government shed its cultural agenda in favor of a pure business orientation Braun describes these changes and presents the arguments of both sides In Buffalo Inc bison serve as a test case for a broader analysis of issues such as sustainability economic development tribal politics and cultural identity The City Reader Richard T. Manzo, Patrick Devine-Wright, 2013-08-15 Recipient of the 2014 EDRA Achievement Award Place attachments are emotional bonds that form between people and their physical surroundings. These connections are a powerful aspect of human life that inform our sense of identity, create meaning in our lives, facilitate community and influence action. Place attachments have bearing on such diverse issues as rootedness and belonging, placemaking and displacement, mobility and migration, intergroup conflict, civic engagement, social housing and urban redevelopment, natural resource management and global climate change. In this multidisciplinary book, Manzo and Devine Wright draw together the latest thinking by leading scholars from around the globe, capturing important advancements in three areas: theory, methods, and application. In a wide range of conceptual and applied ways, the authors critically review and challenge contemporary knowledge, identify significant advances, and point to areas for future research. This volume offers the most current understandings about place attachment, a critical concept for the environmental social sciences and placemaking professions.

Planning in the USA J. B. Cullingworth, Roger W. Caves, 2009. This revised edition continues to provide a comprehensive introduction to the policies and practices of planning. Discussing land use, urban planning, and environmental protection policies, the text explains the nature of the planning process.

Integral Urbanism Nan Ellin, 2013-10-18. Integral Urbanism is an ambitious and forward-looking theory of urbanism that offers a new model of urban life. Nan Ellin's model stands as an antidote to the pervasive problems engendered by modern and postmodern urban planning and architecture: sprawl, anomie, a pervasive culture and architecture of fear in cities, and a disregard for environmental issues. Instead of the reactive and escapist tendencies characterizing so much contemporary urban development, Ellin champions an integral approach that reverses the fragmentation of our landscapes and lives through proactive design solutions.

Yard Art and Handmade Places Jill Nokes, Pat Jasper, 2010-07-22. Relatively few people in America build their own homes, but many yearn to make the places they live in more truly their own. Yard Art and Handmade Places profiles twenty homemakers who have used their yards and gardens to express their sense of individuality, to maintain connections to family and heritage, or even to create sacred spaces for personal and community refreshment and healing. Jill Nokes, an authority on native plants and ecological restoration, traveled across the state of Texas seeking out residents who had transformed their yards and gardens into oases of art and exuberant personal expression. In this book, she presents their stories told in their own words about why they created these handmade places and what their yard art has come to mean to them and to their communities. Rather than viewing yard art as a curiosity or oddity, Nokes treats it as an integral part of home making, revealing how these places become invested with deep personal or social meaning. Yard Art and Handmade Places celebrates the fact that despite the proliferation of look-alike suburbs, places still exist where people with ordinary means and skills are shaping space with their own hands to create a personal expression that can be enjoyed by all.

Your Place or Mine? Ethel Crowley, 2013-03-22. Ireland's economy is being scrutinised daily by everyone from politicians to pub goers, but what about the deeper questions of Ireland's sense of identity and community? Socially, Ireland is in a period of rapid change is it time to get behind the numbers and look at who we really are In Your Place or Mine sociologist Ethel Crowley looks at our attitudes to home place family sexuality and community Do we still need the traditional forms of connection to home family community and locality in the highly globalised society in which we live Do we still like to stay within the heart of a familiar comfort zone or are we willing to push its boundaries Your Place or Mine captures some of the complexities of contemporary Ireland What is the impact of globalisation and multiculturalism Are community values really declining Despite a more liberal attitude to sexuality are we a liberal society Ethel Crowley mixes warm hearted biography and sociological rigour to create a set of reflections on finding our place in the world as a country and as individuals Crowley uses an exciting innovative approach to identify and describe the cultural transformations of contemporary Ireland Mixing personal memories with sociologically informed debate she provides an insightful and imaginative explanation of how Ireland has combined the local with the global Professor Tom Inglis School of Sociology University College Dublin Church on Earth Jeff Wild, Peter Bakken, 2009 What difference does environment make in a congregation's life and mission A world of a difference if understood and embraced say the authors of Church on Earth Grounding your Ministry in a Sense of Place Focusing on the congregation as place a unique nexus for cultivating spiritual social and ecological relationships has implications for the shape of a congregation's particular identity and vocation for how it embodies and proclaims the gospel in worship education evangelism and service Small Town Tourism in South Africa Ronnie Donaldson, 2017-10-14 This book investigates small town tourism development in South Africa taking into account the most common strategies branding promotion festivals and theming The contents of the book resonate with the intersection of the power elite and their impacts on small town tourism Because the book focuses on small town geographies in South Africa the literature on small town tourism in the country is reviewed in Chapter 2 to provide a contextual background Each subsequent chapter begins with an overview of international literature to give the conceptual context of the case studies each chapter explores In Chapter 3 the concept of small town tourism branding is illustrated by an exploration of the Richmond book town In Chapter 4 the branding theme is probed further in an investigation of two winners of the Kw la Town of the Year competition namely Fouriesburg and De Rust Chapter 5 documents the branding of Sedgelyield through its proclamation as Africa's first Cittaslow slow town a process driven by the local power elite to the exclusion of town's poor who have no understanding of the intentions of the Cittaslow movement and its potential benefits for the town Chapter 6 is a case study of Greyton's tourism led rural gentrification by which a small town has transformed in three decades to become a sought after place of residence for elite immigrants so making the town a jewel tourism destination while reinforcing racial segregation Because festivals and events creations of the wealthy have made significant financial contributions to small towns Chapter 7 considers festivals and events as strategies to market and brand small towns in a particular way Case studies of the economic impacts of festivals on small towns are assessed and the assessment methodologies used are critiqued Chapter 8 provides a synthesis by drawing on the thesis of the urban growth machine by power elites Aesthetic Sustainability Norman Lowe, 2010-10-05 Market Place Susan Parham, 2013-02-21 This book is about designing for food It explores three fast transforming urban sites in London centred on the regenerating spaces of Borough Broadway and Exmouth Markets It suggests that food quarters have emerged in each place modelling new forms of interconnection between physical design and social processes in which food related renewal is at the heart Using case study research informed by design morphological and social science techniques the book explores how the interplay between compact city design and social practices focused on food strongly influences the making of everyday life in these places It demonstrates that the quarters have at once enriched the experience of food and eating and increased urban sustainability and conviviality in and around previously moribund food spaces while paradoxically contributing to gentrification effects The book frames this experience within more spatially dominant approaches to city design which seem to close off convivial food options and choices that would support a more satisfying and resilient urban life The book draws some conclusions about the complexities of designing and planning for food led renewal that might apply more broadly to other places in London and potentially to other cities in future Place and Placelessness Revisited Robert Freestone, Edgar Liu, 2016-07-15 Since its publication in 1976 Ted Relph's Place and Placelessness has been an influential text in thinking about cities and city life across disciplines including human geography sociology architecture planning and urban design For four decades ideas put forward by this seminal work have continued to spark debates from the concept of placelessness itself through how it plays out in our societies to how city designers might respond to its challenge in practice Drawing on evidence from Australian British Japanese and North and South American urban settings Place and Placelessness Revisited is a collection of cutting edge empirical research and theoretical discussions of contemporary applications and interpretations of place and placelessness It takes a multi disciplinary approach including contributions from across the breadth of disciplines in the built environment architecture environmental psychology geography landscape architecture planning sociology and urban design in critically re-visiting placelessness in theory and its relevance for twenty first century contexts The Social Science Jargon Buster Zina O'Leary, 2007-09-17 Are you confused by academic jargon Do you know your discourse from your dialectic Can you tell the difference between anomie and alienation The Social Science Jargon Buster tackles the most confusing concepts in the social sciences breaking each down and bringing impressive clarity and insight to even the most complex terms This book successfully addresses the central task for any teacher of social theory how to make the material accessible without making it simplistic and banal The overall effect is a most effective text that hard pressed students and lecturers will grab with both hands Dave Harris Senior Lecturer in Social Science This practical down to earth dictionary will help students new to social science discourse gain a thorough understanding of the key terms Each entry includes a concise core definition a more detailed explanation and an introduction to the associated debates and controversies In addition students will find a useful outline of the practical application of each term as well as a list of key
