Rage and Time Peter Sloterdijk, 2010 While ancient civilizations worshipped strong active emotions modern societies have favored more peaceful attitudes especially within the democratic process We have largely forgotten the struggle to make use of thymos the part of the soul that following Plato contains spirit pride and indignation Rather Christianity and psychoanalysis have promoted mutual understanding to overcome conflict Through unique examples Peter Sloterdijk the preeminent posthumanist argues exactly the opposite showing how the history of Western civilization can be read as a suppression and return of rage By way of reinterpreting the Iliad Alexandre Dumas's Count of Monte Cristo and recent Islamic political riots in Paris Sloterdijk proves the fallacy that rage is an emotion capable of control Global terrorism and economic frustrations have rendered strong emotions visibly resurgent and the consequences of violent outbursts will determine international relations for decades to come To better respond to rage and its complexity Sloterdijk daringly breaks with entrenched dogma and constructs a new theory for confronting conflict His approach acknowledges and respects the proper place of rage and channels it into productive political struggle
