Violence and Belonging Vigdis Broch-Due, 2004-06 Violence and Belonging explores the formative role of violence in shaping people's identities in modern postcolonial Africa Rwanda Conflict Dixon Kamukama, 1993 Africa in Transformation Organization for Social Science Research in Eastern and Southern Africa. Congress, 2000 Placed in the same context as volume one volume two of the Fifth Congress Proceedings of the Organisation for Social Science Research in Eastern and Southern Africa is focused on political and economic reforms and transformations and gender issues The papers included are culture and productivity the welfare state on trial civil service reform in Uganda traditional leaders in the decentralised process civil society indigenous populist institutions and implications for political reforms in Uganda the nature of economic reforms in Tanzania and Botswana tradition and modernity in our times economic liberalisation and civil society in Sudan pauperisation of the middle class in Sudan authoritarian populism and democratisation in Ethiopia the political economy of democratisation in Swaziland political culture and the limits if institutional reforms incorporating women in development the participation of women in political activities in Africa economic structural adjustment programmes in Zimbabwe their impact on the gender dimensions the effects of structural adjustment programmes on women's health in Kenya gender sensitivity and development in health policies poverty and food insecurity in Tanzania Rwanda Conflict Dixon Kamukama, 1997 The struggle for independence in most African countries has been characterised by uprisings of the local population against the colonial power In Rwanda however the wrath of the agitators was directed towards another section of the same population resulting in thousands fleeing and becoming refugees This background haunts the different regimes in Kigali and led to the 1990 invasion by Rwandese refugees The author a historian at Makerere University traces the roots of the conflict up to the time of the invasion and the signing of the peace pact between the Rwanda Patriotic Front and the Kigali Government Arts & Humanities Citation Index, 1996 Rwanda Jean Damascene Sekamana, 2011 Rwanda is a small landlocked country located in the middle of Central Africa and East Africa It was a Belgian colony until 1962 At independence Rwanda inherited an ethnic conflict that had roots in the colonial administration system for divide and rule applied by the colonial power Instead of addressing that problem the post independence Leaders exploited the situation for their own interests and manipulated Rwandan society using ethnic exclusion and a quota system This system from 1959 to 1994 resulted in many massacres against Tutsis the exile of thousands of Tutsi refugees in the region civil war and ultimately genocide The Rwanda Patriotic Front was only able to bring peace and security to the country after facing a serious internal insurgency and fighting two wars in DRC between 1994 and 2002 Rwanda is now in a process of reconciliation and a development programme after consultations and discussions among representatives of all Rwandan society between 1998 and 1999 The key elements of this programme are justice through the Gacaca Courts development based on a devolved planning system with strict accountability and an improved education system This programme is using a number of home grown tools that are demonstrating good results and giving hope for a peaceful and prosperous Rwanda in the future

The Path of a Genocide Howard Adelman, Astri Suhrke, The Great Lakes region of Africa has seen dramatic changes After a decade of war repression and genocide loosely allied regimes have replaced old style dictatorships The Path of a Genocide examines the decade 1986-97 that brackets the 1994 genocide in Rwanda This collection of essays is both a narrative of that event and a deep reexamination of the international role in addressing humanitarian issues and complex emergencies Nineteen donor countries and seventeen multilateral organizations international agencies and international nongovernmental organizations pooled their efforts for an in depth evaluation of the international response to the conflict in Rwanda Original studies were commissioned from scholars from Uganda Rwanda Zaire Ethiopia Norway Great Britain France Canada and the United States While each chapter in this volume focuses on one dimension of the Rwanda conflict together they tell the story of this unfolding genocide and the world's response The Path of a Genocide offers readers a perspective in sharp contrast to the tendency to treat a peace agreement as the end to conflict This is a detailed effort to make sense of the political crisis and genocide in Rwanda and the effects it had on its neighbors

The Rwanda Crisis Gérard Prunier, 1998 Offering an up to date historical perspective which should enable readers to fathom how the brutal massacres of 800 000 Rwandese came to pass in 1994 this volume includes a new chapter that brings the analysis up to the end of 1996 Gerard Prunier probes into how the genocidal events in Rwanda were part of a deadly logic a plan that served central political and economic interests rather than a result of primordial tribal hatreds a notion often invoked by the media to dramatize genocide

Rwanda Political History, and Crises Lewis Boyce, 2017-01-12 Rwanda Political History and Crises Rwanda Genocide Rwanda Economy Rwanda government A History Book on Rwanda More than 20 years after the genocide Rwanda has become one of the most repressive countries in Africa continuing its antidemocratic trajectory as the government works to close civic space in the run up to the contentious 2017 elections Despite these conditions Rwanda is perceived as a stabilizing factor in an increasingly volatile region causing many to fear that its deteriorating human rights record will be overlooked David Himbara is the United States and Canada coordinator for Democracy in Rwanda Now and recently testified before Congress on the worsening human rights situation in Rwanda He spent six years working for President Paul Kagame most notably as chairman of the Rwanda Development Board where he was instrumental in spurring Rwanda's economic development After recognizing the increasingly violent nature of the Kagame regime Himbara fled to South Africa in January 2010 where he was subjected to harassment and threats He was eventually forced to flee to Canada in 2013

The Order of Genocide Scott Straus, 2013-01-14 The Rwandan genocide has become a touchstone for debates about the causes of mass violence and the responsibilities of the international community Yet a number of key questions about this tragedy remain unanswered How did the violence spread from community to community and so rapidly engulf the nation Why did individuals make decisions that led them to take up machetes against their neighbors And what was the logic that drove the campaign of extermination According to Scott Straus a social scientist and former journalist in East Africa for several years who received a Pulitzer Prize nomination for his reporting for the Houston Chronicle many of the widely held beliefs about the causes and course of genocide in Rwanda are incomplete They focus largely on the actions of the ruling elite or the inaction of the international community Considerably less is known about how and why elite decisions became widespread exterminatory violence Challenging the prevailing wisdom Straus provides substantial new evidence about local patterns of violence using original research including the most comprehensive surveys yet undertaken among convicted perpetrators to assess competing theories about the causes and dynamics of the genocide Current interpretations stress three main causes for the genocide ethnic identity ideology and mass media indoctrination in particular the influence of hate radio Straus s research does not deny the importance of ethnicity but he finds that it operated more as a background condition Instead Straus emphasizes fear and intra ethnic intimidation as the primary drivers of the violence A defensive civil war and the assassination of a president created a feeling of acute insecurity Rwanda s unusually effective state was also central as was the country s geography and population density which limited the number of exit options for both victims and perpetrators In conclusion Straus steps back from the particulars of the Rwandan genocide to offer a new dynamic model for understanding other instances of genocide in recent history the Holocaust Armenia Cambodia the Balkans and assessing the future likelihood of such events
