Sacred Rituals At Home:

Sacred Ritual, Profane Space Jenn Cianca, 2018-05-23 The first three centuries of Christianity are increasingly seen in modern scholarship as sites of complexity Sacred Ritual Profane Space examines the Christian meeting places of the time and overturns long held notions about the earliest Christians as utopian rather than place bound people By mapping what is known from early Christian texts onto the archaeological data for Roman domestic spaces Jenn Cianca provides a new lens for examining the relationship between early Christianity and sites of worship She proposes that not only were Roman homes sacred sites in their own right but they were also considered sacred by the Christian communities that used them In many cases meeting space would have included the presence of the Roman domestic cult shrines Despite the fact that the domestic cult was polytheistic Cianca asserts that its practices likely continued in places used for worship by Christians She also argues that continued practice of the domestic cult in Roman domestic spaces did not preclude Christians from using houses as churches or from understanding their rituals or their meeting places as sacred Raising a host of questions about identity ritual affiliation and domestic practice Sacred Ritual Profane Space demonstrates how sacred space was constructed through ritual enactment in early Christian communities

Handbook of the Sociology of Morality Steven Hitlin, Stephen Vaisey, 2010-10-17 Human beings necessarily understand their social worlds in moral terms orienting their lives relationships and activities around socially produced notions of right and wrong Morality is sociologically understood as more than simply helping or harming others it encompasses any way that individuals form understandings of what behaviors are better than others what goals are most laudable and what proper people believe feel and do Morality involves the explicit and implicit sets of rules and shared understandings that keep human social groups intact Morality includes both the shoulds and should nots of human activity its proactive and inhibitive elements At one time sociologists were centrally concerned with morality issues like social cohesion values the goals and norms that structure society and the ways individuals get socialized to reproduce those concerns In the last half century however explicit interest in these topics has waned and modern sociology has become uninterested in these matters and morality has become marginalized within the discipline But a resurgence in the topic is happening in related disciplines psychology neurology philosophy and anthropology and in the wider national discourse Sociology has much to offer but is not fully engaged in this conversation Many scholars work on areas that would fall under the umbrella of a sociology of morality but do not self identify in such a manner nor orient their efforts toward conceptualizing what we know and should know along these dimensions The Handbook of the Sociology of Morality fills a niche within sociology making explicit the shared concerns of scholars across the disciplines as they relate to an often overlooked dimension of human social life It is unique in social science as it would be the first systematic compilation of the wider social structural cultural cross national organizational and interactional dimension of human moral understood broadly thought feeling and behavior

Babcock, 2014-05-12 Israelite festival calendar texts Exod 23 34 Lev 23 Num 28 29 Deut 16 and Ezek 45 share many features however there are also differences Some of the most often cited differences are the following festival dates festival locations date of the New Year festival timing and festival names Scholars have explored these distinctions and many have concluded that different sources authors redactors wrote the various calendars at different times in Israelite history Scholars use these dissimilarities to argue that Lev 23 was written in the exilic or postexilic era Babcock offers a new translation and analysis of a second millennium B C multimonth ritual calendar text from Emar Emar 446 to challenge the late dating of Lev 23 Babcock argues that Lev 23 preserves an early 2nd millennium West Semitic ritual tradition Building on the recent work of Klingbeil and Sparks this book presents a new comparative methodology for exploring potential textual relationships Babcock investigates the attributes of sacred ritual through the lens of sacred time sacred space and movement sacred objects ritual participants and ritual sound The author begins with a study of ancient Near Eastern festival texts from the 3rd millennium through the 1st millennium This analysis focuses on festival cycles common festival attributes and the role of time and space in ritual Babcock then moves on to an intertextual study of biblical festival texts before completing a thorough investigation of both Lev 23 and Emar 446 The result is a compelling argument that Lev 23 preserves an early West Semitic festival tradition and does not date to the exilic era refuting the scholarly consensus This illuminating reading stands as a model for future research in the field of ritual and comparative textual studies
