Publications of the University of Pennsylvania, 1927 The Uncontrollability of the World Hartmut

Rosa, 2020-10-06 The driving cultural force of that form of life we call modern is the desire to make the world controllable Yet it is only in encountering the uncontrollable that we really experience the world only then do we feel touched moved and alive A world that is fully known in which everything has been planned and mastered would be a dead world Our lives are played out on the border between what we can control and that which lies outside our control But because we late modern human beings seek to make the world controllable we tend to encounter the world as a series of objects that we have to conquer master or exploit And precisely because of this life the experience of feeling alive and truly encountering the world always seems to elude us This in turn leads to frustration anger and even despair which then manifest themselves in among other things acts of impotent political aggression For Rosa to encounter the world and achieve resonance with it requires us to be open to that which extends beyond our control The outcome of this process cannot be predicted and this is why moments of resonance are always concomitant with moments of uncontrollability This short book the sequel to Rosa's path breaking work on social acceleration and resonance will be of great interest students and scholars in sociology and the social sciences and to anyone concerned with the nature of modern social life Southern Reporter, 1922 Includes the decisions
