Marriage and Marriageability Chigusa Yamaura, 2020-07-15 How do the Japanese men and Chinese women who participate in cross border matchmaking individuals whose only interaction is often just one brief meeting come to see one another as potential marriage partners Motivated by this question Chigusa Yamaura traces the practices of Sino Japanese matchmaking from transnational marriage agencies in Tokyo to branch offices and language schools in China from initial meetings to marriage the visa application processes and beyond to marital life in Japan Engaging issues of colonial history local norms and the very ability to conceive of another or oneself as marriageable Marriage and Marriageability rethinks cross border marriage not only as a form of gendered migration but also as a set of practices that constructs marriageable partners and imaginable marriages Yamaura shows that instead of desiring different others these transnational marital relations are based on the tactical deployment of socially and historically created conceptions of proximity between Japan and northeast China Far from seeking to escape local practices participants in these marriages actively seek to avoid transgressing local norms By doing so on a transnational scale they paradoxically reaffirm and attempt to remain within the boundaries of local marital ideologies contentious issues in Japanese life pollution nuclear power organized labor and the elusive matter of political style In what will become classic statements on business management and organization Reischauer sketches the early background of trade and commerce in Japan contrasts the struggling prewar economy with today s assertive manufacturing and brilliantly characterizes the remarkable postwar economic miracle of Japanese heavy industry consumer product development and money management In a final section Japan and the World he attempts to explain to skeptical Westerners that country s growing and painful dilemma between neutrality and alignment between trade imbalance and fair practices and the ever vexing issue of that embodiment of Japanese specialness a unique and difficult language that affects personal and national behavior Japan Now ,1998 Japan and Korea Frank George Carpenter,1925 Japan, Real and Imaginary Sydney Greenbie,1920 The Japan Magazine ,1910
