Frontiers of Femininity Karen M. Morin, 2008-12-18 British explorer and professional travel writer Isabella Bird is to the modern eye a study in contradictions One of the premier mountaineers and world explorers of her generation she was in 1892 the first woman elected to London's Royal Geographic Society And yet Bird's books on her travels are filled with depictions of herself and other women that reinforce the properly feminine domestic and behavioral codes of her day In this fascinating and highly original collection of essays Karen Morin explores the self-expression of travel writers like Bird by giving geographic context to their work With a rare degree of clarity the author examines relationships among nineteenth-century American expansionism discourses about gender and writings of women who traveled and lived in the American West in the late nineteenth century British travelers American journalists a Native American tribal leader and female naturalists Drawing from a rich diversity of primary sources from published travelogues and unpublished archival sources such as letters and diaries to newspaper reportage Morin considers ways in which women's writing was influenced by the material circumstances of travel in addition to the various social norms that circumscribed female roles Ranging in scale from the interior of train cars and the homes of these women to the colonial projects of conquering the American West the author illustrates how geography was fundamental to the formation of women's identity and greatly influenced the gendered and colonialist language found in their writing

Darwin's Psychology Ben Bradley, 2020-10-08 Darwin has long been hailed as forefather to behavioural science especially nowadays with the growing popularity of evolutionary psychology Yet until now his contribution to the field of psychology has been somewhat understated This is the first book ever to examine the riches of what Darwin himself wrote about psychological matters It unearths a Darwin new to contemporary science whose first concern is the agency of organisms from which he derives both his psychology and his theory of evolution A deep reading of Darwin's writings on climbing plants and babies blushing and bower birds worms and facial movements shows that for Darwin evolution does not explain everything about human action Group life and culture are also keys whether we discuss the dynamics of conscience or the dramas of desire Thus his treatment of facial actions sets out from the anatomy and physiology of human facial movements and shows how these gain meanings through their recognition by others A discussion of blushing extends his theory to the way reading others expressions rebounds on ourselves I care about how I think you read me This dynamic proves central to how Darwin understands sexual desire the production of conscience and of social standards through group dynamics and the role of culture in human agency Presenting a new Darwin to science and showing how widely Darwin's understanding of evolution and agency has been misunderstood and misrepresented in biology and the social sciences this important new book lights a new way forward for those who want to build psychology on the foundation of evolutionary biology

Architectural World of Thomas Jefferson Alley Marie Jordan, 2025-06-12 Reaching beyond politics and law this book focuses on Thomas Jefferson as an aesthetic classicist Jefferson embraced the influence of antiquity through his adoption of classical architecture in his Virginia residences in order to establish Rome as an ancestor to America In a time of significant political and cultural change he aligned himself with a Greco Romano legacy that represented knowledge power and art Alley Marie Jordan studies the architectural and landscape spaces of Jefferson s classical taste which include the villas of Monticello and Poplar Forest as well as the University of Virginia An examination of these places exposes his deeply entrenched views of the importance of classics in Virginia and reveals them as expressions of admiration of classical antiquity Seeking to uncover an underexplored side of his character Jordan deconstructs his identity through a classical lens and illustrates his influence on American culture as well as his desire to reform it via the classics By dislodging Jefferson from American politics this study redefines his worldview and motivations for inventing an American virtue based on Horace s utile dulci Although his participation in acquiring classical taste was not unique for his time he did accomplish a unique aim with classicism the blending of the American landscape with classical culture to create a new American virtue Special Reference Briefs , 1983 Guide to Historical Research at the National Agriculture Library Susan Chapman, 1994
