Dreamless and Possible Christopher Howell, 2014-07-01 This generous volume of new and selected poems by Christopher Howell encompasses three decades of his distinguished work drawing upon all of his previous books Dreamless and Possible chronicles his wide range of interests expressed by blending elements of the surreal with biography imagist economy with a storyteller's informality It also shows the development of his signature style reflected as poet Albert Goldbarth has written in poems connected by deep thought worn lightly and by large vision writ in small details These are poems of palpable force Howell thinks out loud as he works his way through what charms challenges and defines the human project He questions tests images and associations and leaps trusting himself into midair In consequence the cerebral energy propels his poems beyond statement and into startlingly evocative modes grappling with and sifting profound matters of memory imagination and grief tempered always by joy Make Me a Mother Susanne Antonetta,2014-02-10 A woman unexpectedly finds her best self through a sleepy bundle handed over at the airport in this heartfelt and surprising memoir In Make Me a Mother acclaimed memoirist Susanne Antonetta adopts an infant from Seoul South Korea After meeting their six month old son Jin at the airport an incident made memorable when Susanne so eager to meet her son is chased down by security Susanne and her husband learn lessons common to all parents such as the lack of sleep and the worry and joy of loving a child They also learn lessons particular to their own family not just how another being can take over your life but how to let an entire culture in how to discuss birth parents who gave up a child and the tricky steps required to navigate race in America In the end her relationship with her son teaches Susanne to understand her own troubled childhood and to forgive and care for her own aging parents Susanne comes to realize how time and time again all families have to learn to adopt one another Disappearing Ingenue Melissa Pritchard,2003-06-10 This wildly imaginative collection presents the misadventures of unlikely heroine Eleanor Stoddard as she tries to lead an exemplary life but finds that things just keep going awry In the summer after sixth grade she dreams of being as courageous as Anne Frank As a teenager her sudden devotion to Catholicism coincides with her crush on a nun As a suburban housewife who suspects her husband of having an affair she imitates Nancy Drew to try to solve her own personal mystery And as a middle aged woman she embarks on a trek through Central America accompanied by a rescued laboratory gorilla While Eleanor makes her way through a whirlwind of adventures with life and love in which she is constantly reinventing her identity and rethinking her priorities she manages to become a first rate student a published poet and a loyal mother Each story offers a glimpse into her familiar and charmingly odd journey and she comes hilariously to life in these disarming tales Pushcart Prize XXIX Bill Henderson,2004-11-02 A yearly anthology of fiction essays and poetry from the small presses chosen by writers Short Story Index ,2004 Light's Ladder Christopher Howell,2016-06-01 In this extraordinary new collection by distinguished poet Christopher Howell the opening poem presents us with a spiritual paradox that will echo throughout its pages The speaker remembers an earlier time of happiness freedom and a certain innocence The poem closes with And if he remembers now he is in love which is the soul's condition and alone because that is how we live How we live is the book's major inquiry its illustration the poem's major achievement How do we live in our dailiness in our loves our private and global wars And in the face of unbearable grief how can we live Keats When Keats at last beyond the curtain of love's distraction lay dying in his room on the Piazza di Spagna the melody of the Bernini Fountain filling him like flowers he held his breath like a coin looked out into the moonlight and thought he saw snow He did not suppose it was fever or the body's weakness turning the mind He thought England and there he was secretly for the rest of his improvidently short life up to his neck in sleigh bells and the impossibly English cries of street vendors perfect and affectionate as his soul For days the snow and statuary sang him so far beyond regret that if now you walk rancorless and alone there in the piazza the white shadow of his last words to Severn Don't be frightened may enter you The Blueline Anthology Rick Henry, Anthony O. Tyler, Stephanie Coyne-DeGhett, Myra Gann, Alan Steinberg, Alice Wolf Gilborn, 2004-03-01 Since 1979 the literary journal Blueline has served as a venue for literature that reflects the distinctive spirit of the Adirondack region These poems and prose pieces drawn from twenty five years of Blueline's pages represent the abundance and variety of creative responses to the singular geography and history of the Adirondacks Read together however they do something more they reveal a distinct way of looking at the world attuned both to nature in all its various detail and to profound questions about nature and humanity Under the editors discriminating eyes the contributions coalesce into a natural and elegant extension of the region's landscape and people From Joseph Bruchac's Writing by Moonlight and Neal Burdick's Waiting for a Train at the Plattsburgh Amtrak Station to Alice Wolf Gilborn's On Adirondack Porches The Blueline Anthology offers rare glimpses into the soul of a region brief and shifting views that like those glimpsed by a hiker looking out from the trees at the blue mountains capture the eye and the mind

Icon and Evidence Margaret Gibson, 2001-10-01 With Icon and Evidence Margaret Gibson gives us poems grounded in reverence and inquiry and sensuous delight She extends and enriches the lyric poem finding it capacious and durable enough to embrace short and longer meditations epistles persona poems and narratives Whether their concerns are intimate spiritual or social these are poems of atonement essentially faithful to experience and its revelations more so than to any specific creed or doctrine The task to be faithful is both aesthetic and spiritual to use words faithfully is how Gibson clarifies her encounters with the Absolute within the relative and mutable things of this world The opening poem situates the poet beneath an endless sky of stars and dark emptiness But dear God all I want is to be here my tiny anguish and my joy a moment's notice an equivalent cry The book divides into four sections Canticle Complaint Confession and Compline Like the Psalms the poems praise with one voice then turn to note human failure error and injustice They contemplate the ways of desire then enter the mission of solitude turning from social practice to meditative practice summoned into pain and darkness by an intrepid joy Traditionally one who makes an icon does so in an attitude of contemplation the finished icon uniting image and spirit in a presence that challenges and confronts the one who stands before it Evidence has the force of both data and document but it also includes the evidence of things not seen In this rich and powerful collection Gibson uses both icon and evidence to probe the human heart its entanglements and its freedom Cape Clear Theodore Deppe, 2002
