The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema Temenuga Trifonova, 2020-07-09 The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema explores contemporary debates around the concepts of Europe and European identity through an examination of recent European films dealing with various aspects of globalization the refugee crisis labour migration the resurgence of nationalism and ethnic violence neoliberalism post colonialism with a particular attention to the figure of the migrant and the ways in which this figure challenges us to rethink Europe and its core Enlightenment values citizenship justice ethics liberty tolerance and hospitality in a post national context of ephemerality volatility and contingency that finds people desperately looking for firmer markers of identity The book argues that a compelling case can be made for re orienting the study of contemporary European cinema around the figure of the migrant viewed both as a symbolic figure representing post national citizenship urbanization the gap between ethics and justice and as a figure occupying an increasingly central place in European cinema in general rather than only in what is usually called migrant and diasporic cinema By drawing attention to the structural and affective affinities between the experience of migrants and non migrants Europeans and non Europeans Trifonova shows that it is becoming increasingly difficult to separate stories about migration from stories about life under neoliberalism in general

Forced Migration across Mexico Ximena Alba Villalever, Stephanie Schütze, Ludger Pries, Oscar Calderón Morillón, 2024-03-11 This book analyzes the different ways in which forced migration comes together with organized violence in the Americas focusing specifically on the migration corridor from Central America through Mexico and on to the United States No matter their starting point most South and Central American migrants to the United States must eventually traverse Mexico and often many other borders beforehand to reach their destination As border controls tighten for many migrants turning back is not a possibility or something they desire And so when faced with hardening policies migrants are often forced into situations of increased violence and precarity without a shift in their ultimate objective This book analyzes the complex social situations of everyday violence and increasingly aggressive border controls which face migrants in Mexico as well as their exposure to a different kind of violence during their migration trajectory through the criminal actors such as gangs cartels and corrupt law enforcements that seek to make a profit from them The book takes a critical approach on migration policies and on the externalization of borders by analyzing their effects on the trajectories and experiences of migrants themselves It shows that the more migrants opportunities and rights during transit are hindered the more they are at risk of exposure to these actors relations and anthropology in the Americas Migration, Agrarian Transition, and Rural Change in Southeast Asia Philip F. Kelly, 2013-10-18 Rural life in Southeast Asia is being transformed by new and intensifying processes of migration and mobility Migration out of rural areas creates new forms of class mobility familial relations production processes and income Migration into rural areas creates a new and sometimes marginalized workforce contestation over resource access and the juxtaposition of culturally different groups At the same time everyday mobility stretches the spatial boundaries of village and family life The bounded space of the village is no longer adequate to understand the dynamics that are driving and resulting from rural social change This collection of original studies explores the cultural economic and environmental dimensions of intensifying migration and mobility in rural Southeast Asia at multiple scales Diverse processes are explored including rural urban flows rural rural movement everyday mobilities and international migrations into regional and global labour markets Drawing on fieldwork in six countries across the region these essays also explore what migration means for our understanding of class citizenship gender and the state in a rapidly changing part of the world This book was based on two parts of a special issue of Critical Asian Studies Migrant Aesthetics Glenda R. Carpio, 2023-10-31 Co winner 2024 Matei Calinescu Prize Modern Language Association By most accounts immigrant literature deals primarily with how immigrants struggle to adapt to their adopted countries Its readers have come to expect stories of identity formation of how immigrants create ethnic communities and maintain ties to countries of origin Yet such narratives can center exceptional stories of individual success or obscure the political forces that uproot millions of people the world over Glenda R Carpio argues that we need a new paradigm for migrant fiction Migrant Aesthetics shows how contemporary authors Teju Cole Dinaw Mengestu Aleksandar Hemon Valeria Luiselli Julie Otsuka and Junot Diaz expose the historical legacies and political injustices that produce forced migration through artistic innovation Their fiction rejects the generic features of immigrant literature especially the acculturation plot and the use of migrant narrators as cultural guides who must appeal to readerly empathy They emphasize the limits of empathy insisting instead that readers recognize their own roles in the realities of migration which like climate change is driven by global inequalities Carpio traces how these authors create literary echoes of the past showing how the history of neo colonialism links distinct immigrant experiences and can lay the foundation for cross ethnic migrant solidarity Revealing how migration shapes and is shaped by language and narrative Migrant Aesthetics casts fiction as vital testimony to past and present colonial imperial and structural displacement and violence Proximity as Method Riccarda Flemmer, Bani Gill, Jacky Kosgei, 2024-06-07 This book examines proximity as a benchmarked concept that can be deployed across a range of humanities disciplines to rethink the ways in which existences in the world are always already coexistences and to parse the heuristic ethical epistemological praxeological consequences of this recognition The volume Brings together diverse theoretical approaches and utilizes a range of methodological instruments conceptual textual analytic whether in the realm of literary or religious studies or theology or law archival digital sociological or political

Includes empirical case studies that allow calibrated and scaled exemplifications Launches forays onto unexplored conceptual terrain or call into question hallowed truths of scholarly procedure The volume will be essential reading for students and early researchers in the social sciences and the humanities

When Humans Become Migrants

Marie-Bénédicte Dembour, 2015-03-26 The treatment of migrants is one of the most challenging issues that human rights as a political philosophy faces today It has increasingly become a contentious issue for many governments and international organizations around the world The controversies surrounding immigration can lead to practices at odds with the ethical message embodied in the concept of human rights and the notion of migrants as a group which should be treated in a distinct manner This book examines the way in which two institutions tasked with ensuring the protection of human rights the European Court of Human Rights and Inter American Court of Human Rights treat claims lodged by migrants It combines legal sociological and historical analysis to show that the two courts were the product of different backgrounds which led to differing attitudes towards migrants in their founding texts and that these differences were reinforced in their developing case law The book assesses the case law of both courts in detail to argue that they approach migrant cases from fundamentally different perspectives It asserts that the European Court of Human Rights treats migrants first as aliens and then but only as a second step in its reasoning as human beings By contrast the Inter American Court of Human Rights approaches migrants first as human beings and secondly as foreigners if they are Dembour argues therefore that the Inter American Court of Human Rights takes a fundamentally more human rights driven approach to this issue The book shows how these trends formed at the courts and assesses whether their approaches have changed over time It also assesses in detail the issue of the detention of irregular migrants Ultimately it analyses whether the divergence in the case law of the two courts is likely to continue or whether they could potentially adopt a more unified practice perspectives on important questions regarding the regulation of irregular migration in Europe such as what constitutes inadequate implementation of the Directive and under which conditions can judicial dialogue solve it How can judges ensure that the right balance is struck between effective return procedures and fundamental rights Why do we see different patterns of judicial dialogue in the Member States when it comes to particular questions of return policy for example regarding the use of detention These questions are more timely than ever given the shifting public discourse on immigration and the growing political backlash against immigration courts This book will be essential reading for all scholars and practitioners in the fields of immigration law and policy EU law and public law

Making the Frontier Man Matthew C. Ward, 2023-11-14 For western colonists in the early American backcountry disputes often ended in bloodshed and death Making the Frontier Man examines early life and the origins of lawless behavior in Pennsylvania Virginia Kentucky and Ohio from 1750 to 1815 It provides a key to understanding why the trans Appalachian West was prone to violent struggles especially between white men Traumatic experiences of the Revolution and the Forty Years War legitimized killing as a means of self defense of property reputation and rights transferring power from the county courts to the ordinary citizen Backcountry men waged war against American Indians in state sponsored militias as they worked to establish farms and seize property in the West And white neighbors declared war on each other often taking extreme measures to resolve petty disputes that ended with infamous family feuds Making the Frontier Man focuses on these experiences of western expansion and how they influenced American culture and society specifically the nature of western manhood which radically transformed in the North American environment In search of independence and improvement the new American man was also destitute frustrated by the economic and political power of his elite counterparts and undermined by failure He was aggressive misogynistic racist and violent and looked to reclaim his dominance and masculinity by any means necessary

Theory of the Border Thomas Nail, 2016-08-02 Despite and perhaps because of increasing global mobility there are more types of borders today than ever before in history Borders of all kinds define every aspect of social life in the twenty first century From the biometric data that divides the smallest aspects of our bodies to the aerial drones that patrol the immense expanse of our domestic and international airspace we are defined by borders They can no longer simply be understood as the geographical divisions between nation states Today their form and function has become too complex too hybrid What we need now is a theory of the border that can make sense of this hybridity across multiple domains of social life Rather than viewing borders as the result or outcome of pre established social entities like states Thomas Nail reinterprets social history from the perspective of the continual and constitutive movement of the borders that organize and divide society in the first place Societies and states are the products of bordering Nail argues not the other way around Applying his original movement oriented theoretical framework kinopolitics to several major historical border regimes fences walls cells and checkpoints Theory of the Border pioneers a new methodology of critical limology that provides fresh tools for the analysis of contemporary border politics
