Reimagining Resources and Community Development Monica Gruezmacher,Kelly Vodden,Brennan Lowery,Amy

Hudson,Kristof Van Assche,2025-07-09 This book analyzes the experiences of communities facing major challenges relating to resource dependency and community sustainability drawing on specific examples from the Canadian province of Newfoundland and Labrador It offers a methodology of self analysis for communities facing similar challenges inspired by the ups and downs local strategies for self analysis and collaborative work toward new futures in this Canadian province Life in hundreds of small coastal settlements revolved around the cod fishery until the fishery was no more viable Communities have had to rethink their strengths reconsider their assets and imagine potential futures in the wake of events such as colonization and the collapse of the fishing industry Their experiences are relevant for other parts of the world where formerly central resources are depleted or lose their value and communities face the need for transition The capacity to imagine different futures is rooted in the ability to critically consider strengths and weaknesses alike The authors skillfully dissect and illuminate the conditions that can enable the reconsideration of local assets and narratives toward a more sustainable future The variety of these conditions ranging from social memory to public debate policy tools and institutional capacity decision arenas paths for participation and distributed strategic leadership are laid out clearly and illustrated vividly through vignettes written by individuals who participated in the events described This book culminates in a flexible yet clearly structured method of self analysis useful for communities interested in rethinking their strengths and working toward new futures This book will appeal to students scholars and professionals interested in community development and redevelopment and offers a new understanding of the mechanics of local and regional resilience

Small Town in Modern Times David

M. Rayside,1991-04-01 Rayside conducted informal interviews with more than 150 Glengarrians and attended numerous meetings of local councils school boards planning boards and conservation authorities This field research provides the basis for a detailed examination of the self image of the town as a friendly caring united community and of the unequal power relations that exist between different social classes language groups and men and women Working class life is disadvantaged in Alexandria much as it is in large cities French English relations are strained and the experience of women has not been affected to any great extent by the challenges of feminism Local government in Alexandria may be more accessible to the ordinary citizen than it is elsewhere but as Rayside shows the local council rarely engages in issues of genuine concern to residents who themselves largely ignore municipal politics Most local politicians seem inclined to avoid controversy and innovation hoping to retain an environment favourable to business investment Rayside examines the impact of the external world on a small community He situates this impact and the resulting changes in historical context and reveals economic and social relationships that differ from what many of Alexandria s inhabitants believe to be the case A Small Town in Modern Times will be of interest not only to students and scholars of political science sociology history and Canadian studies but also to residents of Alexandria and any other small community in transition

Semiotic Analysis and Public Policy

Christopher L. Atkinson, 2019-03-20 Semiotic Analysis and Public Policy evaluates several key areas of public policy that are dependent on narrative naming sign and branding to create meaning Semiotic analysis drawing on the work of Saussure Peirce and others allows for creation of a case oriented model of brand versus product and of medium compared with message Using a critical Habermasian lens Atkinson convincingly exposes approaches focusing too heavily on instrumentality and rhetoric that claims a resolution of complex societal dilemmas Rooted in the literature on public policy and semiotics Atkinson creates an opportunity to delve more fully into the creation of narratives and meaning in policy and the origins and maintenance of public programs Evaluation of such programs shows various levels of disconnect between popular understanding of public considerations political outcomes and what results from the administrative regulatory process in support of the law This book will be of interest for scholars and researchers of public policy policy analysis public administration public management and policy implementation

Margins of Insecurity Sam C. Nolutshungu, 1996

A number of crises since the end of the Cold War have demonstrated the insecurity of ordinary people in circumstances where states are either unable to provide protection or are themselves the principle sources of violence Public opinion has provoked international politicians to recognise a problem in which they should intervene but it is rare for effective policies to be implemented Emerging from a series of workshops on the International Security of Marginal Populations the essays seek solutions which go beyond the traditional emphasis on the interests of the state and give due weight to the needs of minority populations SAM C NOLUTSHUNGU was Professor of Political Science in the Frederick Douglass Institute of African and African American studies at the University of Rochester Contributors DAVID LAITIN KIM HOPPER ZOLTAN BARANY JONATHAN BOYARIN REMY LEVEAU ALFRED DARNELL CHARLES R HALE ANTHONY ASIWAJU SAM NOLUTSHUNGU

London's Polish

Borders Michal P. Garapich, 2016-07-26 The figure of the Polish plumber or builder has long been a well established icon of the British national imagination uncovering the UK's collective unease with immigration from Central and Eastern Europe. But despite the powerful impact the UK's second largest language group has had on their host country's culture and politics, very little is known about its members. This painstakingly researched book offers a broad perspective on Polish migrants in the UK, taking into account discursive actions, policies, family connections, transnational networks, and political engagement of the diaspora. Born out of a decade of ethnographic studies among various communities of Polish nationals living in London, Michal P. Garapich documents the changes affecting both Polish migrants and British society, offering insight into the inner tensions and struggles within what is often assumed to be a uniform and homogeneous category. From Polish financial sector workers to the Polish homeless population, this groundbreaking book provides a street-level account of cultural and social determinants of Polish migrants as they continually rework their relation to class and ethnicity.

The Moro Morality Play Robin Wagner-Pacifici, 1986-11-15. On March 16, 1978, the former prime minister of Italy, Aldo Moro, was kidnapped by the Red Brigades, and what followed—the fifty-five days of captivity that resulted in Moro's murder—constitutes one of the most striking social dramas of the twentieth century. In this compelling study of terrorism, Robin Wagner-Pacifici employs methods from sociology, symbolic anthropology, and literary criticism to decode the many social texts that shaped the event: political speeches, newspaper reports, television and radio news editorials, photographs, Moro's letters, Red Brigade communiqués, and appeals by various international figures. The analysis of these texts calls into question the function of politics, social drama, spectacle, and theater. Wagner-Pacifici provides a dramaturgic analysis of the Moro affair as a method for discussing the culture of politics in Italy.

Anthropology and Autobiography Judith Okely, Helen Callaway, 1992-07-02. Anthropological writings by anthropologists in the field have long been a valuable tool to the profession. But until now, the theoretical implications of its use have not been fully explored. Anthropology and Autobiography provides unique insights into the fieldwork, autobiographical materials, and/or textual critiques of anthropologists, many of whose ethnographies are already familiar. It considers the role of the anthropologist as fieldworker and writer, examining the ways in which nationality, age, gender, and personal history influence the anthropologist's behavior towards the individuals he is observing. This volume also contributes to debates about reflexivity and the political responsibility of the anthropologist, who as a participant has traditionally made only stylized appearances in the academic text. The contributors examine their work among peoples in Africa, Japan, the Caribbean, Greece, Shetland, England, indigenous Australia, Indonesia, and Sri Lanka. Autobiography is developed alongside political, intellectual, and historical changes. The anthropologists confront and examine issues of racism, reciprocity, and friendships. Anthropology and Autobiography will appeal to anthropologists and social scientists interested in ethnographic approaches, the self, reflexivity, qualitative methodology, and the production of texts.
