book opens the debate on what is needed to make it work Making Risk Management Work Ruth Murray-Webster, Penny Pullan, 2022-10-10 Making risk management work means engaging people to identify own and manage risk Many organisations have spent considerable time and money setting up risk frameworks processes and supporting tools but these have failed to deliver value Instead they should focus on the people Bringing together the expertise of Ruth Murray Webster in the human aspects of risk management and Penny Pullan s deep expertise in facilitation creative collaboration and virtual leadership this book provides tried and tested approaches to make each process step work well within the context of your own organisation and serves as a guide as to how to work effectively with groups By translating a highly technical and complex subject into an easy to follow guide this book goes beyond tick box approaches and provides top tips on how to engage others in developing risk management solutions and how to avoid many of the common pitfalls This new edition includes two brand new chapters one taking a deeper dive into the common decision biases among groups in organisations and one looking at remote and hybrid ways of communication and facilitation If you are involved in trying to make risk management work whatever the context this book will provide you with support and practical advice in an approachable way supported by real life examples and memorable illustrations Making Fisheries Management Work Stig S.

Gezelius, Jesper Raakjær, 2008-07-15 The state of the Northeast Atlantic fisheries in recent years has highlighted plementation as the Achilles heel of modern fisheries management discards and unreported or misreported landings are in many cases recognised to effectively subvert sound conservation goals Social science literature on fisheries mana ment has tended to regard the implementation of resource conservation policies mainly as a question of effective enforcement This literature regards surveillance and penalty as the key mechanism through which fishermen keep to catch restr tions and loyally report their catches This book emerged because several years of research on fishermen s compliance had made us uneasy about this rather narrow approach to the problem of implementation This uneasiness motivated us to widen the approach to the question of implementing conservation policies in the fisheries Taking Norway as an example its fishing fleet consists of some 7 000 vessels spread along a coastline of more than 20 000 km populated by less than 5 million people The idea of ensuring desirable behaviour through surveillance and forcement alone is almost absurd in such a context as the task is impossible by any reasonable means The Norwegian implementation system has thus had to rely heavily on the incentives provided by the rules and legitimacy created through a century of state industry collaboration Different coastal states face very different conditions in terms of solving typical implementation problems such as discards and misreporting Off
