Environmental Politics and Liberation in Contemporary Africa M.A. Salih,2013-03-14 Nowadays the environment looms large in the analysis of conflict in developing societies and the precise role it plays is the subject of an ongoing debate The debate has moved on from the earlier but still popular notions of power struggles class struggles and ethnic conflicts to a perception of conflict as the product of intense group competition for resources Where the state controls the distribution of resources itself inevitably becomes party to conflicts whose bone of contention is access to state power as the most efficient means of gaining access to resources The resources in question are social health education transportation communication recreation etc and material land water housing jobs contracts licenses permits etc In parts of the world and especially in Africa diminishing resources and authoritarian state rule exacerbate group competition leading to political confrontation This is the line I have followed in analysing conflict in the Horn of Africa Markakis 1987 1998 Mohamed Salih s first contribution in this volume is to move the debate a step beyond this line which can be criticized as unduly materialist He does it by bringing culture into the realm of resources not only as a resource in itself but also as the agency that assigns natural resources their value Culture thus becomes a contextual element in conflict over resources whose value is culturally determined Contemporary Africa Toyin Falola,2000 Contemporary Africa edited by Toyin Falola captures the challenges optimism and problems that face modern Africa notably those of economic underdevelopment and political instability African countries seek various answers and they have recorded varying degrees of success as they attempt to unite their peoples to build strong nations develop their economies and stabilize their politics Failures have equally been recorded in a number of places although these have not prevented the search for new solutions nor dampened the enthusiasm of Africans in liberating themselves from poverty Among the leading issues that the volume pays attention to are the achievements of independence the colonial legacy Africa s place in global affairs economic development political instability and the challenges of renewal in the 21st century This is the fifth volume in a series of textbooks entitled Africa Contributors to the volumes are African Studies teachers from a variety of schools and settings Writing from their individual areas of expertise these authors work together to break stereotypes about Africa focusing instead on the substantive issues of the African past from the perspectives of Africans themselves The organization of the books is flexible enough to suit the needs of any instructor and the texts include illustrations maps and timelines to make cultural and historical movements clearer Suggestions for further reading that will help students broaden their own interests are also included Africa challenges the accepted ways of studying Africa and encourages students who are eager to learn about the diversity of the African experience
