Seahorse Soldiering Macarthurs Amphibian Enginee:

War at the End of the World James P. Duffy, 2023-12-05 A harrowing account of an epic yet nearly forgotten battle of World War II General Douglas MacArthur's four year assault on the Pacific War's most hostile battleground the mountainous jungle cloaked island of New Guinea A meaty engrossing narrative history This will likely stand as the definitive account of the New Guinea campaign The Christian Science Monitor One American soldier called it a green hell on earth Monsoon soaked wilderness debilitating heat impassable mountains torrential rivers and disease infested swamps New Guinea was a battleground far more deadly than the most fanatical of enemy troops Japanese forces numbering some 600 000 men began landing in January 1942 determined to seize the island as a cornerstone of the Empire's strategy to knock Australia out of the war Allied Commander in Chief General Douglas MacArthur committed 340 000 Americans as well as tens of thousands of Australian Dutch and New Guinea troops to retake New Guinea at all costs What followed was a four year campaign that involved some of the most horrific warfare in history At first emboldened by easy victories throughout the Pacific the Japanese soon encountered in New Guinea a roadblock akin to the Germans disastrous attempt to take Moscow a catastrophic setback to their war machine For the Americans victory in New Guinea was the first essential step in the long march towards the Japanese home islands and the ultimate destruction of Hirohito's empire Winning the war in New Guinea was of critical importance to MacArthur His avowed I shall return to the Philippines could only be accomplished after taking the island In this gripping narrative historian James P Duffy chronicles the most ruthless combat of the Pacific War a fight complicated by rampant tropical disease violent rainstorms and unforgiving terrain that punished both Axis and Allied forces alike Drawing on primary sources War at the End of the World fills in a crucial gap in the history of World War II while offering readers a narrative of the first rank Seahorse Soldiering Robert Meredith Watson, 2004-03-01 H-Hour Plus Three Henry Christopher Allan, 2002 The untold story of the U S Army amphibious engineers in the Pacific during World War II Down Ramp! William F. Heavey, 2021-05-03 This is the story of the U S Army Amphibian Engineers which saw significant and dangerous action both in the European and Pacific theaters during World War II They were charged with the organization and supervision of crossing and landing parties forming beachheads for invading troops Efficient and courageous they quickly became key elements in the Allies fight to gain ground and maintain supply lines These soldiers were frontline heroes even if they didn't always make the front page headlines Down Ramp keeps the memory of their history and brave service alive Printed Landing an army on a hostile shore has long been regarded as one of the most difficult of all tactical operations Even if the expanse of water to be crossed is only a river and not an ocean history has proved the danger and costliness of such operations Yet we entered World War II with stretches of water varying from the 50 mile turbulent English Channel to the 5 000 mile expanse of the Pacific separating us from our mortal enemies We had to cross these waters and make successful landings on enemy held shores to get at our enemies To all military students except a few extremists it was obvious that we would never win until our infantry crossed those waters to crush the enemy's heart. Air attacks without an atomic bomb or a naval blockade no matter how stringent could never do that alone. As has always been its tradition in new developments the Corps of Engineers made vital contributions to this amphibious part of World War II. This book presents the accomplishments and operations of the Amphibian Engineers in World War II. It is the story of the six brigades and the two separate battalions the Corps of Engineers launched to help win the Victory. Down Ramp! William Francis Heavey, 1947. Da amerikanske hær trådte ind i krigen var det blandt andet med dens enorme landgangsoperationer. Bogen fortæller om amfibie begrebets historie om de mænd der udviklede fartjet og om arbejdet for de mænd der skulle bruge det i praksis amfibie ingeniørerne. Der fortæller om strabadserne på steder som Sicilien, Normandiet, Okinawa og på andre lokaliteter i Stillehavsområdet. Reports of General MacArthur: sup. MacArthur in Japan : The occupation : Military phase Douglas MacArthur, 1966. Reports of General MacArthur are the official after action reports of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. Long out of print this facsimile edition contains not only MacArthur's own perspective of his operations against the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific Area during World War II but also the enemy's unique account of Imperial Army campaigns against MacArthur's forces. Collectively the reports have substantial and enduring value for military historians and students of military affairs providing an illuminating record of momentous events influenced in large measure by a distinguished Soldier and towering figure in American historiography. <https://history.army.mil>
