Seal Cull A Penguin Special:

The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea Linda Pannozzo, 2023-01-03T00:00:00Z In the early 1990s the collapse of the Atlantic groundfish stocks signaled the destruction of life in the seas but it also threw 40 000 people out of work unraveling the very fabric of rural life throughout Atlantic Canada Twenty years later even after fishing moratoriums and limited directed fishing the cod have not recovered and some stocks are on the verge of biological extinction The fishing industry politicians and government scientists blame the growing population of grey seals a species that had up until the 1970s been severely depleted and argue that a large scale cull of the population is needed to save the cod In The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea Linda Pannozzo finds that the truth is much more complex and that the seals are scapegoats for the federal government's mismanagement of the cod stocks deflecting attention away from the effects of global warming and the continued use of destructive fishing methods The collapse of the cod its failure to recover and the recent recommendations for large scale grey seal culls are stark reminders of how fisheries science and public policy are increasingly estranged from each other

A Year with the Seals Alix Morris, 2025-07-15 Environmental journalist Alix Morris spends an eye opening year getting to know these elusive intelligent creatures investigating the effects of their extraordinary return from the brink of extinction and how we can try to bring nature back into balance It might be their large strangely human eyes or their dog like playfulness but seals have long captured people's interest and affection making them the perfect candidate for an environmental cause as well as the subject of decades of study Alix Morris spends a year with these magnetic creatures and brings them to life on the page season by season as she learns about their intelligence their relationships with each other their ecosystems and the changing climate Morris also gets to know all of the competing interests in the intense debate about the newly recovered seal populations in our coastal waters from local fishermen whose catch is often diminished by savvy seals to tribes who once relied on seal hunting for food clothing and medicine to seal rescue workers and biologists to surfers and swimmers now encountering seal hunting sharks in coastal waters A Year with the Seals is a rare look at what happens when conservation efforts actually work and how human tampering with ecosystems continues to have unexpected consequences But it's also a gripping adventure story of a journalist determined to understand seals and our relationship with them for herself

The War Against the Seals Briton Cooper Busch, 1987 Concentrates on the fur seals of the Bering Sea and the harp seals of the Newfoundland hunt Reveals the consequences of an industry's killing of more than 50 000 000 seals in a century and a half

Animal Rights, Human Rights George W. Wenzel, 1991-01-01 This study of the controversy surrounding the hunting of seals in the Canadian Arctic concentrates on the Inuit of Clyde River Baffin Island and traces the evolution of the traditional subsistence economy and social structure to the present cash economy and the effects of animal rights movements on the Inuit culture Extensive bibliography maps and glossary of Inuit sealing terms

overconsumption in a globalized world by tracing the environmental consequences of five commodities. The Shadows of Consumption gives a hard hitting diagnosis: many of the earth's ecosystems and billions of its people are at risk from the consequences of rising consumption. Products ranging from cars to hamburgers offer conveniences and pleasures but as Peter Dauvergne makes clear, global political and economic processes displace the real costs of consumer goods into distant ecosystems, communities and timelines, tipping into crisis people and places without the power to resist. In The Shadows of Consumption, Peter Dauvergne maps the costs of consumption that remain hidden in the shadows cast by globalized corporations, trade and finance. Dauvergne traces the environmental consequences of five commodities: automobiles, gasoline, refrigerators, beef and harp seals. In these fascinating histories we learn, for example, that American officials ignored warnings about the dangers of lead in gasoline in the 1920s; why China is now a leading producer of CFC free refrigerators; and how activists were able to stop Canada's commercial seal hunt in the 1980s but are unable to do so now. Dauvergne's innovative analysis allows us to see why so many efforts to manage the global environment are failing, even as environmentalism is slowly strengthening. He proposes a guiding principle of balanced consumption for both consumers and corporations. We know that we can make things better by driving a high mileage car, eating locally grown food and buying energy efficient appliances, but these improvements are incremental. Local and insufficient. More crucial than our individual efforts to reuse and recycle will be reforms in the global political economy to reduce the inequalities of consumption and correct the imbalance between growing economies and environmental sustainability.

Marine Mammals: Fisheries, Tourism and Management Issues Nicholas Gales, Mark Hindell, Roger Kirkwood, 2003-10-22. Marine Mammals: Fisheries, Tourism and Management Issues brings together contributions from 68 leading scientists from 12 countries to provide a comprehensive up to date review on the way we manage our interactions with whales, dolphins, seals and dugongs. The book examines how we have fared conserving the world's marine mammal populations with a focus on the key issues of fisheries and tourism. From a unique southern hemisphere perspective, the authors consider how science informs the culling debate, how wild fisheries and aquaculture interact with marine mammal populations and how we might manage the effects of whale, dolphin and seal watching industries. The authors also address other issues such as the way in which ethics, genetics, acoustics, ecosystem models and pollution influence the management and conservation of marine mammals. Marine Mammals is an invaluable and accessible resource for all those involved with marine mammals, including scientists, managers, policy makers, industry representatives and students. Winner of a 2004 Whitley Award.

The Mammals of the Southern African Sub-region J. D. Skinner, Christian T. Chimimba, 2005-11-15. This comprehensive volume covers all mammals that occur naturally on the African mainland south of the Cunene and Zambezi rivers and also in the subregion's coastal waters. Extensively revised and updated for the new edition, it now includes the latest data from mammal research in southern Africa along with the radical taxonomic changes across all levels of mammalian classification. Containing contributions from specialists on each mammalian order each species description has been reviewed by a range of independent and internationally recognised authorities Along with the latest taxonomic information the distribution maps and illustrations have been updated and redrawn several new colour plates have been added and the whole design has been enhanced to aid access to key information This is the most comprehensive and up to date survey of southern African mammals and forms an essential reference for zoologists evolutionary biologists and anyone wanting an overview of the region s wildlife Subject Catalog
