

Virtual Aesthetic Simulator

Virtual reality at the service of controlled aesthetic watchmaking.

Our Product

Virtual Aesthetic Simulator (VAS)

ASCA has developed an application with the Geneva watchmaking school, a fault simulator on a mechanical gear. This allows students to train students in more depth in the profession of quality controller. This tool combined with an LMS (Learning Management System) or the integrated management interface makes it possible to optimize aesthetic control training in a fun and efficient way.

Aesthetic Control

HOW TO CONTROL IT?

- Adopting a simple and unambiguous language for a common understanding of aesthetic quality of the components.
- By using a semantic reference matrix associating the types of components, components with precise functions, the criteria with the intensity levels defined with the company.
- Defining the compliance thresholds of the components of product.
- Providing uniform training in operational competence for those responsible for aesthetic control.
- By assigning a specific role to each teaching.
- By regularly assessing the competence to measure progress in a sustainable way (KPIs), of a component or product.

Lighten the management of physical components

Companies must manage and maintain sets of physical components used as a "vocabulary" for the training of aesthetic testers.

The cost of managing a set of physical parts representing all combinations of shapes, defect types, materials and finishes is very high.

VAS allows the company to significantly reduce its management burden by creating standards or products in 3D and then virtually adding "typical" aesthetic phenomena.

VAS Allows

- Streamline the management of components used as standards for aesthetic control training.
- Provide a common vocabulary of aesthetic control and training.
- Integrate aesthetic control into a total quality management (TQM) approach with precise indicators at all stages of the manufacturing and after-sales.
- Provide the after-sales service with an efficient tool to record the aesthetic aspect of the supported product.

Raising awareness of criteria and aesthetic vocabulary

Aesthetic defects are often the result of careless handling of the components and products concerned, whether during manufacture, assembly or marketing. By making the VAS platform available to staff in direct contact with the product, it becomes very easy to make them aware of the evaluation criteria and the aesthetic vocabulary defined by the company.

Improve after-sales Service Returns

The VAS platform can easily be used by the service network to report back in the event of a return or defect. It allows the company to have a clear and efficient way to indicate, in accordance with the product nomenclature, a precise description of the defect and its location. It is possible to draw up a precise repair estimate or to declare market return.

Improving the total quality approach

During the entire product life cycle, from design through customer service to distribution, the VAS application makes it possible to build up a database of aesthetic defects in a simple, efficient and controlled way. On this basis of consolidated data, it is then possible to establish a common vocabulary and standards, thus enabling solutions to be found to correct, improve and optimize the product, process or service offered.

A semantic matrix of aesthetic defects

VAS is based on a semantic matrix that defines 5 levels of intensity for each of the 5 types of aesthetic defects: references: Scratches - Marks - Deformations - Stains - Uniformity.
