The presence of women in Congress is at an all time high approximately one of every five members is female and record numbers of women are running for public office for the 2018 midterms At the same time Congress is more polarized than ever and little research exists on how women in Congress view their experiences and contributions to American politics today Drawing on personal interviews with over three quarters of the women serving in the 114th Congress 2015 17 the authors analyze how these women navigate today's stark partisan divisions and whether they feel effective in their jobs Through first person perspectives A Seat at the Table looks at what motivates these women's legislative priorities and behavior details the ways in which women experience service within a male dominated institution and highlights why it matters that women sit in the nation's federal legislative chambers It describes the strategies women employ to overcome any challenges they confront as well as the opportunities available to them The book examines how gender interacts with political party race and ethnicity seniority chamber and district characteristics to shape women's representational influence and behavior finding that party and race ethnicity are the two most complicating factors to a singular narrative of women's congressional representation While congresswomen's perspectives experiences and influence are neither uniform nor interchangeable they strongly believe their presence matters in myriad ways affecting congressional culture priorities processes debates and outcomes

Cantwell-Jurkovic, 2022-02-19 Service on Institutional Review Boards IRB and Institutional Animal Care and Use Committees IACUC is an uncommon activity for librarians Even librarians who participate in institutional research activities in a supportive capacity or conduct their own original research as scholars themselves and are familiar with the IRB IACUC research approval process they may hesitate to participate more fully with these boards There may be a perception that the work of the IRB and IACUC is too scientifically complex for librarians without an appropriate background Library administrators may not advocate for librarian inclusion on the board for fear of additional burdens on the librarian's time and university administrators might need some convincing of the librarian's suitability to perform this work This book provides librarians with foundational knowledge of the IRB and IACUC describes the work of these important committees and expands librarians' conceptualization and knowledge of opportunities to create services and partnerships through participation The book provides a progressively more comprehensive understanding of the work of these committees Parts I and II discuss IRB and IACUC respectively their history functions and membership Part III highlights expanding roles for librarians on IRB and IACUC and in institutional research activities A special feature of this section describes the experiences of librarians in their own words who work with IRB or IACUC what they have learned how they have used their experiences to create partnerships and market library services and what role they see for libraries and librarians in institutional research A Seat at the
