New Models for Ecosystem Dynamics and Restoration Richard J. Hobbs, Katharine N. Suding, Peter Society for Ecological Restoration International, 2013-03-19 As scientific understanding about ecological processes has grown the idea that ecosystem dynamics are complex nonlinear and often unpredictable has gained prominence Of particular importance is the idea that rather than following an inevitable progression toward an ultimate endpoint some ecosystems may occur in a number of states depending on past and present ecological conditions The emerging idea of restoration thresholds also enables scientists to recognize when ecological systems are likely to recover on their own and when active restoration efforts are needed Conceptual models based on alternative stable states and restoration thresholds can help inform restoration efforts New Models for Ecosystem Dynamics and Restoration brings together leading experts from around the world to explore how conceptual models of ecosystem dynamics can be applied to the recovery of degraded systems and how recent advances in our understanding of ecosystem and landscape dynamics can be translated into conceptual and practical frameworks for restoration In the first part of the book background chapters present and discuss the basic concepts and models and explore the implications of new scientific research on restoration practice The second part considers the dynamics and restoration of different ecosystems ranging from arid lands to grasslands woodlands and savannahs to forests and wetlands to production landscapes A summary chapter by the editors discusses the implications of theory and practice of the ideas described in preceding chapters New Models for Ecosystem Dynamics and Restoration aims to widen the scope and increase the application of threshold models by critiquing their application in a wide range of ecosystem types It will also help scientists and restorationists correctly diagnose ecosystem damage identify restoration thresholds and develop corrective methodologies that can overcome such thresholds

Interregionalism and International Relations Jürgen Rüländ, Heiner Hänggi, Ralf Roloff, 2006-01-16 Interregionalism the institutionalized relations between world regions is a new phenomenon in international relations It also a new layer of development in an increasingly differentiated global order This volume examines the structure of this phenomenon and the scholarly discourse it is generating It takes stock of empirical facts and theoretical explanations bringing together with clarity and concision the latest research on this key area This essential new book traces the emergence of interregionalism and reviews the latest

Statistical Register of Western Australia for ... and Previous Years, 1910 Statistical Register of Western Australia, 1903 The Action Plan for Australian Birds 2020 Stephen T. Garnett, G Barry Baker, 2021-12 The Action Plan for Australian Birds 2020 is the most comprehensive review of the status of Australia's avifauna ever attempted The latest in a series of action plans for Australian birds that have been produced every decade since 1992 it is also the largest The accounts in this plan have been authored by more than 300 of the most knowledgeable bird experts in the country and feature far more detail than any of the earlier plans This volume also includes accounts of over 60 taxa that are no longer considered threatened mainly thanks to sustained conservation action over many decades This extensive book covers key themes that have emerged in the last decade including the increasing impact of climate change as a threatening process most obviously in Queensland's tropical rainforests where many birds are being pushed up the mountains However the effects are also indirect as happened in the catastrophic fires of 2019-20 Many of the newly listed birds are subspecies confined to Kangaroo Island where fire destroyed over half the population But there are good news stories too especially on islands where there have been spectacular successes with predator control Such uplifting results demonstrate that when action plans are followed by action on the ground threatened species can indeed be recovered and threats alleviated

Governing Groundwater Gabriela Cuadrado-Quesada, 2022-03-16 This book empirically examines a diverse range of groundwater issues and different approaches to deal with such concerns taking into account responses from government bodies community organizations scientists private sector and academia The overarching objective of this book is to empirically examine groundwater governance and groundwater law It aims to provide a better understanding of the complexities surrounding groundwater governance in order to reconceptualize and retheorize the governance of subterranean resources having as entry points equity and sustainability concerns This involves understanding what people do when using sharing protecting and measuring groundwater and why do they do what they do i.e. what are their motivations to resort to certain practices This is done through the comparative and contrasting investigation of six case studies from countries from the Global North and Global South It offers a different perspective of literature given that it explains how groundwater governance and law are in practice rather than what they should be Additionally the research presented in this book provides ideas on how to rethink the design and implementation of groundwater law grounded on empirically based descriptions and the understanding of groundwater problems

Australia and Africa Nikola Pijović, 2019-01-28 This book offers analysis of Australia s engagement with Africa as well as the country s rather unique status as a new actor and emerging country in Africa With its empirical originality and comparative contribution the book fills a gap in both the study of Africa s global engagement with emerging countries and in connection with Australia s largely unknown engagement with African states Australia has presented itself as Africa s friend from the south without any colonial baggage and is interested in a long term partnership for trade and development In this context Australia is only one of many new players seeking more intensive engagement with Africa since the end of the Cold War At its core the book argues that because of its largely unacknowledged flawed historical engagement with Africa as well as the political partisanship driving its fickle and volatile contemporary engagement with the continent Australia suffers from an inability to assess its strategic and long term interests i e it doesn t know what it wants in or from Africa This makes Australia a rather unique emerging player in Africa while other new actors engagement with Africa is generally strategic and driven to a large extent by a desire to secure resources and counter the influence of geopolitical rivals Australia s efforts with regard to Africa are more episodic and not about acquiring resources or countering its rivals Hence while immigration globalization trade terrorism and climate change continue to bring Africa and Australia closer together Australia s failure to understand its own interests continues to hamper its engagement with Africa
